Early farms of Clinton come to life in exhibit

by Craig Marshall

The Clinton Historical Society is celebrating the farming heritage of its town with their annual summer exhibit now in progress.

The exhibit is free and open July weekends from 1 to 4 p.m. at the 1777 Quaker Meeting House (the Society's headquarters) located at 2433 Salt Point Turnpike, Clinton Corners, one mile east of the Taconic State Parkway. For information, call Craig Marshall at (845) 242-5879.

This year's theme, titled "Farm Life in Clinton: 1890–1920," captures the era before the advent of electricity and tractors when farming depended on horse- or oxen-drawn implements such as plows, harrows, and hay rakes. Examples of these early tools are featured at the exhibit, as are over 120 vintage images with informative captions and over 40 artifacts related to early farming and farm life.

The story is told in segments covering field and dairy farming, the role and education of children, and family social life and entertainment. A major segment features the partnership of the farm wife and her husband in running the farm operation, as well as the wife's key role in providing and organizing family services such as cooking, cleaning, ironing, gardening, churning butter, and milking. Her work was done without most modern conveniences like indoor plumbing and central heat, resulting in substantial effort with little time for enjoyment. Sundays required the cows to be milked, livestock and chickens fed, eggs gathered, and meals prepared and cleared away. Family enjoyment often came through associations with churches, granges, and Masonic groups.

Besides the twin goals to be self-sustaining and accumulating reserves for lean years caused by bad weather, many small farms provided dairy, fruit, and vegetable products to New York City for additional income. The Poughkeepsie and Eastern Railroad established a depot in Clinton Corners in 1871 from which Clinton farm products were shipped to the city.

From hot rods to antiques, Hyde Park show has it all

Bob Messerich has never missed a Hyde Park Car Show. For Number 17, he plans to bring his 1942 Willys Coupe that he built from a collection of parts. Photo by Jim Donick

by Jim Donick

The annual Hyde Park Car Show is set for this coming Sunday, July 17. Event chairman, Stu Davis, reports the show will be even more diverse than in past years. It will take place in the area vacated by the car dealership at the corner of East Market Street and Route 9. The venue, in the center of town, offers a large space for the cars and easy walking for Hyde Park residents.

Always a popular event, Davis expects well over a 150 cars of all shapes, sizes, colors and sounds to fill the village on Sunday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Hyde Park enthusiast Bob Messerich has never missed the show.

"I love Stuey's event," he says. Messerich, currently well past retirement age, notes that he has been building cars since the age of 16. They qualify as hot rods or customs.

For this year's event, he expects to bring a 1942 Willys Coupe that he built up from a collection of parts. Willys made very few street cars in 1942 prior to ceasing production of them and switching

Graham Nash to play Bardavon July 22

An Evening with Graham Nash will take place at the Bardavon in Poughkeepsie on July 22. Courtesy photo by Ralf Louis Legendary artist Graham Nash will perform at the Bardavon in Poughkeepsie on Friday, July 22, at 8 p.m.

Nash, as a founding member of both the Hollies and Crosby, Stills and Nash (CSN), is a two-time Rock and Roll Hall of Fame inductee who has seen rock history unfold at some of its seminal moments – from the launch of the British Invasion to the birth of the Laurel Canyon movement a year later.

An extraordinary Grammy Award-winning renaissance artist, and self-described "simple man," Nash was inducted twice into the Songwriters Hall of Fame, for his work with CSN and his work as a solo artist, beginning with two landmark albums, Songs For Beginners and Wild Tales.

The original classic union of Crosby, Stills & Nash (& Young) lasted but 20 months. Yet their songs are lightning rods embedded in our DNA, starting with Nash's "Marrakesh Express," "Pre-Road Downs" and "Lady Of the Island," from the first Crosby, Stills & Nash LP (1969). On CSNY's "Déjà Vu" (1970), Nash's iconic "Teach Your Children" and "Our House" (for Joni Mitchell) beseeched us to hold love tightly, to fend off the madness that was on its way.

Legislature committee votes down warning sign proposal at gun shops

The Dutchess County Legislature's Government Services and Administration Committee voted down a proposal by a 7-4-1 margin on Thursday, July 7 for a local law to implement the posting of warning signs anywhere a gun can be purchased within the county.

The proposed signs would have addressed the relationship between gun ownership and violence in the home.

The Democratic caucus introduced the legislation last month, asking for bipartisan support. Thursday night's vote prevented the proposal from coming to the floor at this past Monday's full board meeting.

"This law will fail to achieve its purported purpose and will spread dangerously misleading claims about suicide, and will harass legitimate gun dealers and Dutchess County residents at the same time. It will implicitly blame gun owners and gun sellers for raising the suicide rate, holding them responsible for suicide when the data shows otherwise," said Legislator Will Truitt of Hyde Park, majority leader.

Minority Leader Yvette Valdés Smith said, "This common-sense gun safety measure would have protected the public by warning of the dangers associated with owning a firearm while simultaneously encouraging the use of our 24/7 Dutchess County HELPLINE. This law isn't about reducing firearm ownership, it is about education and awareness and it could have saved lives."

Legislator Brennan Kearney (D-Rhinebeck) stated, "Dutchess County had the opportunity to become a leader in the public health movement by addressing gun violence danger through signage. I am disappointed that neither a single Republican legislator, nor a single Republican in county leadership would even consider this legislation."

Legislature Chairman Gregg Pulver said "Anyone who doesn't think that mental health is a big part of this problem is mistaken. That's why I'm proud that Dutchess County is taking the lead in New York State in sponsoring a Stabilization Center to help those with mental health struggles, and work toward preventing violence in the community. The Stabilization Center at 230 North Road, Poughkeepsie is a great example of such a facility, where people looking for help can find it."

The proposed sign, according to the Democratic Caucus would have read, "Access to a weapon or firearm in the home significantly increases the risk of suicide, homicide, death during domestic disputes and unintentional deaths to children, household members and others. If you or a loved one is experiencing distress and/or depression, call the Dutchess County Helpline at (845) 485-9700 or the national suicide hotline at 988."

NDH seeks volunteers

Northern Dutchess Hospital (NDH) is looking for volunteers who wish to lend a helping hand and make an impact in the lives of others.

"For more than 100 years, our volunteers have been such valuable members of hospital family," said James Glynn, Volunteer Services Coordinator. "As we continue to add members, we hope to expand our services to offer even more unique experiences that help in the healing process."

NDH provides many rewarding and dynamic volunteer opportunities with flexible schedules. Volunteers transport patients, assist at events such as blood drives, perform clerical roles and more. The department also aims to expand its certified pet therapy teams, as well as develop art and music programs.

Volunteer Services takes the time to meet with prospective volunteers, explore their interests and skill sets, and then finds the most ideal placements.

"Matching the right volunteer to the right position is essential to the success of our program," said Glynn, who also oversees volunteers at the Thompson House skilled nursing center.

For information, contact Glynn at James.Glynn1@nuvancehealth.org or (845) 871-3470.

to building Jeeps for the military.

"I've done everything on it," Messerich says. "I welded up the frame, built the engine, did the bodywork, painted it and even [did] the upholstery."

The breadth of Messerich's skills are not seen much in the hobby these days. Many enthusiasts can do one or two of those tasks, though even more limit their efforts to washing and polishing and have the more skilled work done by someone else. In that regard, Messerich is nearly unique today.

One of his pals, Bill Jago, says Messerich is the most talented guy he knows, and the only one he's ever met, who does everything on the car but make the tires.

Davis notes with gratitude that Messerich is a great supporter of the Hyde Park show and usually comes with several friends and their cars, as well.

The plan for the day is a full one.

"We'll have dash plaques for the first 100 cars," says Davis. Additionally there will be food available, a DJ, possibly live music and a wide variety of cars.

"We get a lot of hot rods and customs," says Davis, "but also beautiful classics, sports cars, and even trucks."

Once again, members of the Hyde

Park Fire Department are expected to be on site with one of their older trucks and will offer children the chance to sit in a real fire truck.

A new addition this year will be the presence of a group of electric vehicles (EVs). Davis says they are expecting up to 10 of them and they will have their own area, together on the field. The group of EVs is being encouraged by the Hyde Park Climate Smart Communities initiative.

Richard Mattocks, who is the primary Hyde Park contact for the initiative, says that the group will be bringing a number of different, readily available, electric vehicles and will be there to discuss the experience of owning and driving one. There will literature available from the Climate Smart Communities program on the value of electric vehicles to the environment, as well as other activities and accomplishments of the program.

Steve Wehr, who is coordinating the EV group, notes that the members love to answer questions about their cars and to dispel some of the myths associated with them. He promises a few Teslas, as well as other marques, including a Chevy Volt.

Rain date is the following Sunday, July 24.

Need to get rid of warmongers

To the editor:

The Cold War is an idea that has festered in our political class since the end of WW II. And there has always been enough really insane leaders to push it along. Whole countries have been destroyed in proxy wars: Korea, Vietnam, Afghanistan, Iraq, Libya and Syria. And all the while the technology of mutual destruction has gotten more deadly.

Was President Eisenhower talking about the costs of war in his famous "Cross of Iron" speech? Or was he referring to the possible end of all human life? He said that preparing for war "is not a way of life at all in any true sense. Under the clouds threatening war, it is humanity hanging from a cross of iron."

Many presidents have spoken about peace, but very few have questioned the wisdom of conducting a dangerous Cold War with another nuclear power. NATO has been particularly aggressive since the fall of the Soviet Union. Although Gorbachev was assured by Western leaders that NATO would not expand into Eastern Europe, the 14 Eastern European countries surrounding Russia are now all official NATO members. Ukraine was going to be next.

The people in both Russia and the US do not want a war. Especially one that might end in nuclear Armageddon. What is wrong with our political parties that talk up military intervention? Why does our media misinform us about why Russia invaded Ukraine? For peace to really have a chance, we have to get rid of the warmongers at the top.

Schmitt has letter writer's support

To the editor:

It was a sunny 4th of July weekend complete with patriotism in every corner of our community between the parades, fireworks, and the display of red, white, and blue. I was so pleased to see Assemblyman Colin Schmitt marching in this year's parade in my town. Not only did he make an appearance in the parade, but he made time to speak with community members along the route and mingle afterward. It truly makes such a difference when we're able to access our public officials and get to know them personally, outside of an office setting. Colin is one of those leaders who make the time to hear you out and takes action on your concerns or just strike up a friendly conversation.

Colin has my full support here in the Hudson Valley and I can't wait for him to take his leadership and patriotism to Congress.

Mitchell Oakley

Editor's note: Colin Schmitt is the Republican candidate for New York's 18th Congressional District.

Two former Renegades chosen for Futures Game

by Rich Thomaselli

Two former players for the Hudson Valley Renegades – and one player with the potential to be assigned to the New York Yankees’ High Class A farm team in Dutchess County in the very near future – have been chosen to participate in the prestigious Futures Game on Saturday, July 16.

The Futures Game is held in conjunction with the annual Major League Baseball All-Star Game. The Futures Game showcases young talent that is expected to make the big leagues in short order. The game is on July 16 at Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles.

The Futures Game is set up much the same as the All-star game, American vs. National, although the game is only seven innings instead of the traditional nine. It will be broadcast live on the Peacock Network at 7 p.m.

Former Renegades Anthony Volpe and

Ken Waldichuk, and potential Renegade Jasson Dominguez, will represent the New York Yankees.

Volpe, a shortstop, plays with the Double-A team in Somerset, New Jersey after starting at Hudson Valley last year. Volpe is considered the No. 8 prospect in all of baseball out of thousands currently playing in the minor leagues. According to MLB Pipeline, Volpe is also considered the No. 1 prospect among all Yankee minor leaguers. After a slow start, Volpe is hitting .245 with 11 home runs and 44 RBI.

Waldichuk, a left-handed pitcher, is with the Yankees Triple-A team in Scranton-Wilkes Barre (Pa.). The lefty is currently 6-3 with a 2.44 ERA. He is the Yankees’ fifth-best prospect and No. 74 overall in Major League Baseball.

Dominguez is in Low Class A ball in Tampa. The highly regarded outfielder is New York’s third-best prospect and 40th best in baseball. He is hitting .267 with nine home runs and 35 RBIs.

RENEGADES ROUNDUP

Eight is great as Renegades extend winning streak

by Rich Thomaselli

The Hudson Valley Renegades finished off the first six-game series sweep in team history on Sunday afternoon as they defeated the Jersey Shore BlueClaws 9-6 in 11 innings. The Renegades have now won eight straight games.

HV is 45-37 overall and 10-5 in the second half of the season.

The BlueClaws took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first when Carlos De La Cruz and Rixon Wingrove hit back-to-back doubles against Josue Panacual.

The Renegades struck back with three in the top of the fourth against Ben Brown. Everson Pereira led off with a single and scored on an Anthony Seigler double. An error by D.J. Stewart allowed a second run to score in the frame. With two outs in the inning, Spencer Henson stole home as part of a double steal to give Hudson Valley a 3-1 lead.

Jersey Shore scored three against Panacual in the bottom of the fourth on an RBI double from Baron Radcliff and a two-run triple from Karl Ellison.

T.J. Sikkema replaced Panacual in the sixth and was fantastic, turning in one of the best outings of the season for a Renegades pitcher. Across five innings of relief, Sikkema (1-1) struck out a career-high 11 batters and allowed just one unearned run on two hits. The win was the lefty's first career victory, and 11 strikeouts are the most by a Renegades pitcher this season.

Hudson Valley tied the game at 4-4 in the top of the seventh on a Cooper Bowman RBI single, where the score would stay into extra innings.

In the 10th, the Renegades and BlueClaws traded runs to knot the score at 5-5, with Pat DeMarco delivering the Hudson Valley run with an RBI single off Carlos Francisco.

The Renegades exploded for four runs in the top of the 11th, with Trey Sweeney putting the team ahead for good with a two-run triple off Francisco (0-3). Bowman followed with an RBI double and scored on another Stewart error.

Ryan Miller allowed a run in the bottom of the 11th, but induced a game-ending double play from Baron Radcliff to complete the sweep.

The Renegades are back at Dutchess Stadium this week to host the Greenville Drive, the High-A affiliate of the Boston Red Sox.

GLINER'S KORNER

Helping out in the community during HOPE Week

Every week, Hudson Valley Renegades President Steve Gliner sits down with reporter Rich Thomaselli to discuss the team in particular, and minor league baseball in general.

One thing I wanted to discuss that we didn't have a chance to do was the Renegades' participation in the New York Yankees HOPE Week last month. The Yanks have done this for years in terms of giving back to the community. They expect their minor league teams to do it, but obviously because of COVID it wasn't done last year in 2021. What was it like this year?

For me, let me say that HOPE Week was something I always admired from afar. It's important to give back to the community. The Yankees have done a great job of doing that over the years and us becoming one of their affiliates (last year) made me not only think about it, but also made me really look forward to actually participating in it.

What events did the Renegades participate in locally?

We did three, although one was partially postponed by weather. We went as a team to Hudson River Housing-Liberty Station and we met with some of the military veterans. There was a lot of interaction between them. Then we did our annual D3 event, which is Disability, Dream and Do, and that was our hallmark event. We had the entire team out on the field for a camp with children with special needs. It was really great. The kids went from station to station and our players were terrific with them. It really was just a great morning, and to see the kids and their families enjoying themselves, and seeing the players getting as much out of it as the kids, was really rewarding. And then we went to the Fishkill Food Pantry and donated our time there. We were going to follow it up with a food drive at Dutchess Stadium, but we had a rainout that day, so we're doing the food drive this Sunday, July 17.

Who puts all this together for the Renegades?

Marcella Costello on our staff does community engagement for us and she does a great job. We were able to identify those initiatives and get them accomplished. And we would love to be able to support other events in the community as well.

Would the franchise do things in the community outside of HOPE Week?

Absolutely. One of the great things in our industry is when the players take part, whether it's HOPE Week or any other time of the year. Obviously their focus is on the game and making sure they are prepared, but it's great that they emphasize the importance of community engagement.

Community comes out to honor fire departments in Millbrook parade

Residents from all over Dutchess County came out to honor their fire departments and first responders in the annual Dutchess County Volunteer Fireman's Convention Parade in Millbrook on Saturday. In the photos, clockwise from top left, retired Millbrook Rescue Squad EMTs Rose Galente and Allen Meyer were the parade grand marshals. The Millbrook Fire Department led the parade. Deputies Paul DiGiovanni and Bill McKay of the Dutchess County Sheriff's Department rode all-terrain vehicles. Sean Lewis, Pat Tandy and Dave Bender represented the Union Vale Fire Department with their Fife and Drum band. The Regulators march. GOLDEN LIVING

OFA PRESENTS 'ECHOES OF SINATRA' END-OF-SUMMER CONCERT

Ol' Blue Eyes is (almost) back.

Steve Kazlauskas brings his "Echoes of Sinatra" show to the Grandview (176 Rinaldi Blvd., Poughkeepsie) on Thursday, Aug. 25, at 1:30 p.m., for a free end-of-summer Office for the Aging concert for older adults (60+).

Steve will perform Frank's biggest hits like "Fly Me to the Moon," "New York, New York," "Strangers in the Night" and more. There'll be open floor space for dancing, and snacks available at intermission.

Reservations are required, and seating is extremely limited. Call 845-486-2555 during business hours to reserve a spot.

SENIOR FARMERS MARKET NUTRITION PROGRAM 2022 DISTRIBUTION

Starting this month, qualifying older adults have an opportunity to improve their nutrition while supporting local farms, thanks to New York's Senior Farmers Market Nutrition Program (SFMNP).

Qualifying for SFMNP is straightforward: be at least 60 years of age and receiving benefits through Social Security, public assistance, SNAP, HEAP, or Section 8 housing. Alternately, an older adult may qualify if household income is below 185% of US poverty guidelines.

To find out more about qualifications, call OFA at 845-486-2555 or email ofa@dutchessny.gov. Residents of low-income housing complexes may be able to find out more about SFMNP from their residence manager.

We will distribute a limited number of SFMNP booklets across the county from our main office in Poughkeepsie, and to qualifying participants of our OFA Friendship Center and Home Delivered Meals programs throughout the County.

Each booklet contains five checks valued at $4.00 each. Treat the checks like cash to avoid loss or theft. Customers redeeming SFMNP checks will not receive cash change, and SFMNP checks cannot be exchanged for cash.

Distribution is just getting under way, and will continue throughout the 2022 growing season for as long as supplies last. SFMNP checks can be used until Nov. 30 or a participating market closes for the season, whichever comes first. Leftover checks from 2021 or earlier years are no longer valid.

The most recent available list of participating markets in Dutchess County and statewide is available through the New York State Department of Agriculture at www.agriculture.ny.gov/farmersmarkets. New markets often enter the program in the summer and fall, so check back regularly.

Eligible recipients must personally sign the Statement of Eligibility Form to receive SFMNP checks. Checks cannot be mailed to eligible older adults. Proxies may not pick-up and sign for checks. A valid Power of Attorney (POA) may sign for checks and pick up books for an eligible older adult.

HOME DELIVERED MEALS AND PICNIC VOLUNTEERS WANTED

Volunteer drivers are currently needed immediately, to drive for the Office for the Aging Home Delivered Meals (HDM) program throughout Dutchess County. Whether you're available one weekday or five, we can accommodate your schedule. Mileage reimbursement is available for HDM drivers who use their own vehicles; reimbursement rates were increased in July to reflect the higher price of gasoline.

Hundreds of senior citizen residents of Dutchess County live in their own homes but are unable to cook, shop, or prepare meals. They have received essential help from the HDM program, which makes hot, nutritious midday meals available for most locations in the county Monday through Friday, along with frozen and shelf-stable meals for cases when inclement weather prevents delivery of hot meals.

We're also looking for volunteers to assist guests at any of the following upcoming OFA Picnics. All picnics take place on Wednesdays.

July 13 – Pine Plains (Stissing Mountain High School) July 20 – Wappinger (Robinson Lane Park)

July 27 – Pleasant Valley (West Road School)

August 3 – City of Poughkeepsie (Stitzel Field)

August 24 – East Fishkill (Recreation Park, Hopewell Junction)

August 31 – Beekman/LaGrange

(Freedom Park, LaGrange)

To learn more about OFA volunteering, contact the Office for the Aging at 845-486-2555 or ofa@dutchessny.gov.

WILL THERE BE AN OFA SENIOR PROM?

It's one of the most common questions we've gotten at OFA since the COVID-19 pandemic necessitated the cancellation of the 2020 and 2021 proms, but will the OFA Senior Prom happen this year?

It's probably happening, probably in the fall. We're keeping an eye on the lingering effects of the pandemic; and while we don't have a date or venue lined up yet, subscribers to this newsletter will be among the first to read about it when we move ahead with the prom.

It'll be the 25th (Silver Anniversary) prom, so our theme will be "silver." Many prom guests dress to match the prom's theme. It's not a requirement, but dressing up does put you in the running to become the "Duke" or "Duchess" of the prom.

More to come...

Golden Living is prepared by the Dutchess County Office for the Aging, 114 Delafield St., Poughkeepsie, New York 12601, telephone 845-486-2555, email: ofa@dutchessny.gov website: www.dutchessny.gov/aging

4-H A-Fair to Remember: A Memorable Day!

The Dutchess County 4-H community gathered at Millbrook Winery to showcase our youth and raise funds to support their participation in the program on June 5. Every 4-H project area was represented. A total of 36 club leaders, 14 volunteers, and 89 youth, supported by parents and 4-H staff, worked as a team to make this special day a success.

Tables were laid in a tent overlooking the lake to seat the 104 guests who had either purchased tickets or were event sponsors/donors. Two talented 4-H musicians (Cosette and Macy Veeder-Shave) completed the festive feel.

But it was the youth who stole the show. Youth and volunteers worked together to set up 14 tents, create educational displays, and install animals shady in pens. The tents lined both sides of walkway which led to the 4-H Dutchess County Long Rifles club area. Here guests and 4-H'ers alike got to try their hand at archery and rifle shooting, while learning about safety and responsibility. From those acting as hosts and servers in the tent to those manning the booths, our 4-H'ers exhibited all the qualities 4-H helps our youth develop, along with in-depth knowledge about their specific projects. Here are just two of the comments received from attendees:

"Congratulations on a fantastic event at the winery! We all had a wonderful time and had so many wonderful conversations with folks and were not just impressed but actually blown away by the kids' knowledge and skills and level of engagement. Wow! Just...WOW"!! - Julie Hart, Dutchess Land Conservancy

"What a terrific event! My friends were buzzing about the exhibits and the amazing 4-H'ers who spoke so well about their activities. Your event was extremely well organized, the tables were beautiful, food was great and the milkshakes were yum, the soaps, notecards, plants and body scrub items were fabulous, the animals were fantastic and the archery was fun - a very big hit with my group of Millbrook Garden Club members"! - Lea Cornell, Program Sponsor and Community Member

Total income from sponsorship, donations, ticket sales and the auction came to over $41,000. This event is set to raise approximately $28,000 to enable us to welcome more youth to participate at the 2022 Dutchess County Fair and cover costs to make this accessible for all youth.

Flock of Feathers, Stony Ground 4-H Clubs educate community

The Flock of Feathers and Stony Ground 4-H poultry clubs came together to inform the public about avian influenza recently. They set up an educational display outside the Tractor Supply in Wappingers Falls.

Avian influenza, or the HPAI virus, is a disease that mainly affects poultry like chickens and turkeys. The goal was to let those who have chickens know how to protect their chickens, as well as inform those who don't have chickens how to help in trying to halt the spread of this virus. There has not been a case of avian influenza in Dutchess County since February, so for now our birds are somewhat safe.

Due to efforts such as those described above, the spread of A.I. has been halted and restrictions regarding showing poultry at fairs in NY have been lifted! Come and visit our 4-H poultry clubs at the Dutchess County fair in August.

Showmanship Clinic

A total of 54 youth ages 5-18 attended the 4-H all-species showmanship clinic on June 20 at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds.

From a large and lively group of 4-H Cloverbuds (5-7 year olds) to four of our Flourishing Farmers members (youth with special needs), kids from a wide variety of backgrounds worked with goats, sheep, dairy and beef cattle, hogs, llamas and alpacas, poultry, rabbits and cavys, and horses.

Participants worked to improve their skills in showing their project animals, learned how to show other species, and came together to share their passion and experiences with others. Sessions were led by senior 4-H'ers and 4-H alumni who volunteered their time as peer mentors. Local farmers and volunteers made this possible by donating their time and costs to bring animals for the program.

Based in the Midwest, Girl Named Tom (Bekah, Joshua and Caleb Liechty) toured across the country for a year before the pandemic struck. Their fan base grew dramatically as their remarkable harmonies and heartfelt performances won the hearts of America on “The Voice.” In addition to their chart-topping covers (“River,” “The Chain,” and “Dust in the Wind” among others), Girl Named Tom also writes and performs original music.

Their debut EP, “Another World,” takes the listener into a reflective space, exploring fond memories, global issues and intimate conversations.

Love INC is a local non-profit organization that encourages and empowers individuals facing challenges related to poverty and social isolation. Love INC draws local churches, agencies, and individuals together to pool resources, reduce duplication of services, and maximize community impact. July 16 event in Amenia to reveal rich mosaic of rural life in early DC

by Bill Jeffway

The public is cordially invited to the gathering of descendants of Amenia's Bockee family (pronounced boh-KAY) at the historic Smithfield Church in Amenia on Saturday, July 16, at 2 p.m. It is offered as a live, in-person event only and includes refreshments and a display of historical items.

The Dutchess County Historical Society (DCHS) and Amenia Historical Society (AHS) co-host the event since both organizations have important collections related to the family.

The talk will be given by DCHS and AHS Trustee Betsy Strauss, DCHS Collections Chair & Trustee Melodye Moore, and DCHS Executive Director Bill Jeffway. There will be questions and an opportunity for discussion and refreshments in the historic church, a beautiful setting for historical items which rarely leave the protective confines of DCHS and AHS archives.

The period of time we will examine ranges from the late 17th century, when the Bockee family first purchased 350 acres in the area in 1698 (they actually built a home and settled around 1761) through to the end of the Civil War, and into the mid 20th century.

As talented, educated, community-oriented establishment figures with means, the family could have chosen to live in Poughkeepsie or New York City, and for certain periods of time, certain family members did. But essentially, over the centuries the family chose to live a rural life.

Those not familiar with the area or its history, may be surprised that any rural area could be at the intersection of major events like the Revolutionary War, the abolition of slavery, and the Civil War, or whose economy included lead mining and railroads.

Dutchess County life

This dynamic family gives us a rare view into the varied mosaic of Dutchess County life at the time. Stories include the situation of Indigenous Peoples. The area, in broad terms, was a border area with the Mohican to the north and the Wappinger to the south. Adjacent to the Bockee land in the early 1740s, there was a significant settlement of Moravian missionaries determined to convert Indigenous Peoples to Christianity. The story of its rise, and fall, tell us a lot about the challenges faced by Indigenous

Women in the family were both determined to be well educated themselves, and determined to educate others. Men in the family, through political elections and legislation, and through service in the Civil War, sought to advance the end of slavery in the United States. As was not uncommon at the time, the family advanced the abolition of slavery, but themselves enslaved men and women.

These intersections of politics, law, economics and social activity are physically manifested in the Federal Square, which we encourage attendees to visit after, along with a visit to the adjacent cemetery where family members are buried.

The highlights of the items on exhibition include the unveiling of the recently restored early 19th-century portraits of Abraham and Martha (Oakley) Bockee. The portraits were a recent gift to DCHS from Jean Oakley Winans Fisher in memory of Margaret Bockee Link. A successful fundraising drive allowed for their professional restoration. The wedding dress of Martha Bockee will be on display.

We will feature photographs of the Bockee family home taken from the landmark 1931 Dutchess County Doorways by Helen Wilkinson Reynolds and photographer Margaret DeMott Brown.

Attendees will also see the medical chest used by Dr. Jacob Bockee in the military hospital in New Orleans where he served with his wife and daughters. After the war, the active leadership of the family and family economy was taken over by Catharine, who established a school for young ladies in Poughkeepsie. Of special interest is the beautiful satin quilt made by students of her students. Viewers will be able to admire the fine needlework, as well as the personal messages and names of students embroidered on each quilt square.

For those of us who still have not ventured out a lot given the pandemic and may hesitate, we believe a physical trip to the Smithfield Church is well worth the trip on the 16th.

During a 1926 DCHS pilgrimage for members that included a trip to the Smithfield Church and nearby Troutbeck estate, under the heading of "the value of local history" the philosopher and author Lewis Mumford spoke to the audience about what he saw as the power of being physically present in local history.

I paraphrase for brevity: "Local history touches on things that have happened on the spot, and local history becomes part of our life in a way that is not possible from if taken only from books and secondhand accounts. Things we can see and touch are the things that awaken our imagination."

that's Italian!

by luigi coppola

Italian ninja

It started out innocently enough with a pack of scrap paper...

In the time before the internet and video games, kids would have to use their imagination in order to have fun. My brother Vinny and I were no different. We would make games up with anything we could find. Inevitably, the game would devolve into us throwing things at each other in a game of war.

One day my father brought home a pack of scrap paper from the restaurant for us to draw on. I was a voracious artist drawing on any scrap piece of paper I could find. My brother Vinny and I dove right into it, first using the paper to draw on, then discovering that we could make paper airplanes until, finally, we folded them into Chinese footballs.

The Chinese footballs started innocently enough with us making goal posts out of the scrap paper and having contests to see who could flick the football the furthest until Vinny got frustrated and threw the football at me.

Well, that simple act got our creative juices flowing until we decided we would have a Chinese football fight in the basement the next day. We retired to our respective corners and started manufacturing our ammunition for the next day's battle.

As I have said in earlier articles, I am the Italian version of Dennis the Menace and, as such, have done many things to make my parents angry at me. However, I was never malicious. It's just that I never thought anything all the way through.

After making a few dozen Chinese footballs and experimenting with the folding in order to get the best flight, I discovered that a paper clip in the tip would really make them fly. All subsequent Chinese footballs were made into Ninja Stars. Unbeknownst to Vinny, I had stacked the deck in my favor. There was no way I would lose this battle.

The next morning, Vinny and I met on the basement battle field as my mother was upstairs making frittata for breakfast. After 15 minutes or so of moving things around in order to make barriers to hide behind, we lined up on either ends of the field of war and began the countdown to battle.

"10!" I yelled out. I began the countdown to my eventual victory. "9!" I started to peer over my barrier across the battlefield for my enemy. "8!" I commenced to look where my first move would be. "7!" I had planned my first move and reached for my first Ninja Star. "6!" I clutched the star and placed between my fingers so I would be ready to throw it. "5!" I peered over the barrier and saw Vinny getting ready for his first move. "4!" I began to steady myself so I would be able to get up, throw, then move. "3!" I could feel the adrenaline coursing through my 10-year-old veins and I squinted my eyes like Dirty Harry. "2!" I started to get up ready for the first move. "1!" I straightened up, reared my arm back and flung my Ninja Star at Vinny as he stood up. I ran for the first barrier expecting a barrage of Chinese footballs, but instead all I heard was crying.

Apparently the paperclip point had found its mark and had stuck itself into Vinny's head. As I got up to see what was going on, Vinny was on the ground crying yelling that I was a jerk and screaming for Mom.

It was at that moment that I knew that, one, I had won the war; two, I was in trouble; and finally three, I had wasted a lot of time making Ninja Stars that would never get used. When Mom came downstairs, I started to go upstairs to my room because I knew that I was going to get punished.

Vinny ended up with a small hole in his head and a belly full of frittata, and I ended up on my bed for the rest of the morning and cold cereal. Once again I was in trouble for not thinking anything the whole way through.

Boost your brain power with tips from stage actors

If you've ever marveled at how stage actors master a role, you will enjoy this newly published collection of interviews, "Off Book: Memorization Secrets from Performing Artists."

Over the course of three years, author and educator Brent Sverdloff interviewed emerging, mid-career, and established performing artists and asked them to share their approaches to memorization. The more than 40 interviews selected for his new book are filled with creative and effective strategies that help anyone improve their memory, on stage and off.

To help others put these techniques into practice, Sverdloff is offering two free storytelling "playshops" at libraries in the Hudson Valley. Participants will craft a story, commit it to memory, and deliver it with confidence.

The first one will be July 20 at Howland Public Library, 313 Main St., Beacon from 1:30 to 3 p.m. The second will be held Aug. 20, from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Starr Library, 68 West Market St. in Rhinebeck.

For details and to register, visit FlexYourMemory.com/events. More sessions will be posted as they are scheduled.

First classes graduate from Nuvance's New York residency programs

More than 30 Nuvance Health doctors graduated from their mid-Hudson Valley medical residency programs in late June.

In celebration of their accomplishments, Nuvance Health held graduation ceremonies at the end of June on hospital campuses in Poughkeepsie and Rhinebeck. The 32 graduates included 25 internal medicine residents and seven family medicine residents. They began their training in July 2019, thanks to the first academic programs launched by Nuvance Health, known as Health Quest at that time.

"This was an exceptional class of inaugural residents, who have completed in-depth, specialized training with our quality faculty. They are now ready to sit for their board certifications and practice independently," said Dr. Chris Stenberg, Vice President of Graduate Medical Education at Nuvance Health. "This graduating class represents the beginning of bright young doctors staying in our region for years to come."

Seven of the graduate-doctors will join

Nuvance Health in the coming weeks to provide primary care in Modena, Fishkill and New Milford, Conn., and hospitalist medicine at Vassar Brothers Medical Center and Sharon Hospital.

Nuvance Health offers New York-based residency training in Internal Medicine, Family Medicine, Surgery, Emergency Medicine, Psychiatry, Anesthesia, Neurology and Transitional Year. Recently, the system began recruiting for fellowships in Pulmonary Critical Care, Nephrology Fellowship, Infectious Disease, Ultrasound and Headache.

Medical residency training begins after graduation from medical school and can last three to five years, depending on the specialty. After residency, some doctors go on to do fellowship training, which enables them to specialize in fields of medicine.

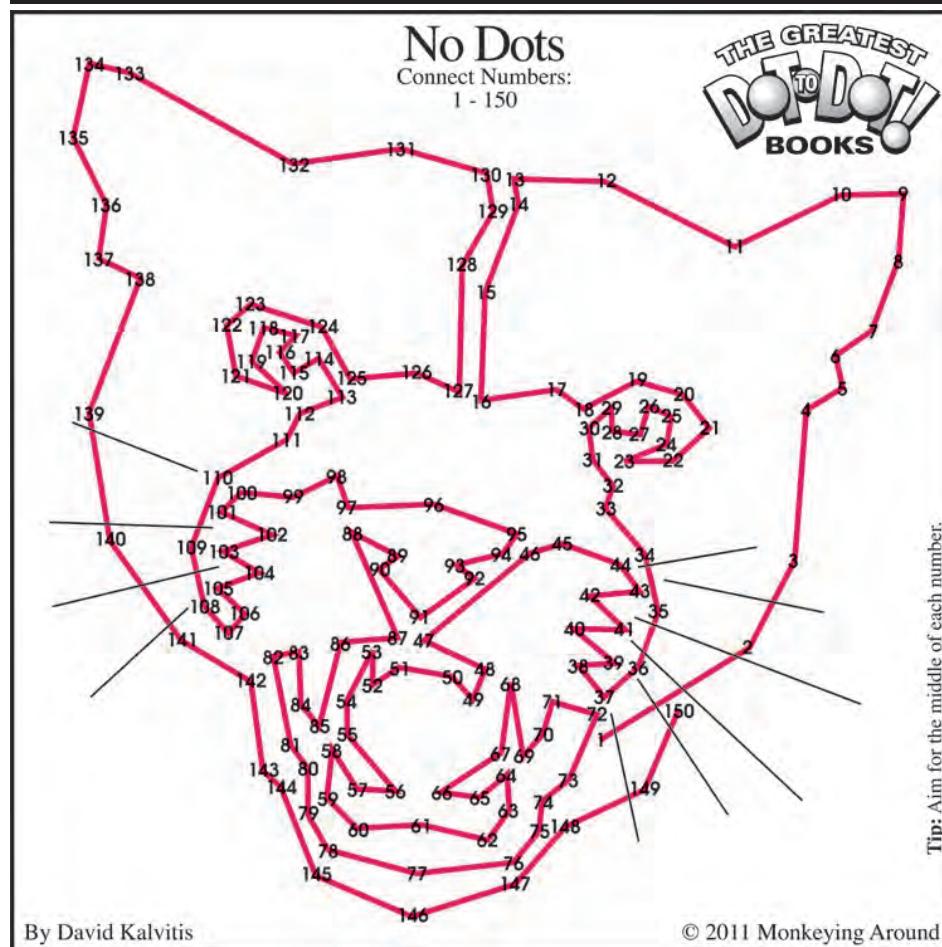

"I'm extremely proud of the growth of our medical education program, educating new generations of exceptional physicians," Dr. Stenberg said.

County Sheriff's Office and Union Vale first responders, CPR was continued and an AED (automatic external defibrillator) was applied.

The AED administered one shock to the patient and emergency care was continued.

No further shocks were performed/advised by the AED and a short time later the patient began breathing on his own and subsequently became conscious prior to transport.

The patient was transported via Union Vale Fire District ambulance with a Mobil Life paramedic on board.

Upon arrival at Vassar Brothers Medical Center emergency room, the patient was conscious and speaking.

According to the American Heart Association (AHA), less than 10 percent of people survive a cardiac arrest and leave the hospital. The AHA adds that it is only through bystander CPR, early defibrillation and rapid transport to an appropriate medical facility that makes this possible.

"There is no higher accomplishment in emergency services than saving a life. The quick actions of the first responders, including the Dutchess County 911 emergency staff, Deputies of the Dutchess County Sheriff's Office, Mobil Life Support and members of the Union Vale Fire District resulted in a life being saved and should be commended for their extraordinary efforts," said Union Vale Fire District Chief Steven Schmoke.

Dutchess County to launch veterans treatment courts

Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro announced the county is establishing, supporting and funding a veterans treatment court, with the support of County Court Judge Jessica Segal, City of Beacon Judge Gregory Johnson, the County Office of Probation and Community Corrections, and Mental Health America (MHA) Vet2Vet Program to adjudicate cases of offenses involving veterans, specifically those living with trauma, addiction or mental illness related to their service.

The new veterans court is another example of the successful collaboration of agencies and experts within the criminal justice system who come together as the County's Criminal Justice Council to continuously improve system outcomes in Dutchess County. The New York State Office of Court Administration recently approved the County's proposal for the new courts, which will begin next week with a "soft launch" and will be fully operational by the fall.

Molinaro said, "Our veterans are our American heroes, and sadly many of them return from duty with mental scars that make their reintegration into their community difficult, often resulting in their entry into the criminal justice system. Dutchess County is proud to establish this veterans court to help divert these heroes away from incarceration and into the proper treatment programs that will support their recovery, diminish their chances of reoffending, and restore their connections to their community. We thank Judge Segal and Judge Johnson for their cooperation in helping us found this groundbreaking endeavor, which will have such a positive impact on so many local veterans and their families."

The veterans treatment court has two tracks – felony and misdemeanor. Felonies will be addressed in County Court in Poughkeepsie under the jurisdiction of the Hon. Jessica Segal. Judge Segal has been instrumental in working with County Probation and Community Corrections in making the veterans treatment court – the first of its kind in Dutchess County – possible.

Misdemeanors will be handled in Beacon under the jurisdiction of the Hon. Gregory Johnson, as an offshoot of the existing drug court. The new courts will serve as an alternative to incarceration, offering veterans treatment, structure and accountability, while also connecting them to the benefits their service has earned them. Veterans who repeatedly face such charges associated with addiction, homelessness and the like, will be eligible to participate in the new court.

Hon. Segal said, "The veterans court model is a team effort, comprised of local stakeholders interested in making a real impact in our veterans' lives. More than a guilty verdict, we are focused on rehabilitating these men and women who have defended our nation, giving them a second chance to turn their lives around and constructively contribute to their community. I look forward to the successful implementation of these new courts in Dutchess County and seeing the great benefit it will bring to our veterans."

First established in Buffalo in 2008 and replicated throughout the United States, the veterans treatment court model offers veterans facing misdemeanor drug cases with a veteran mentor, who engages with the veteran throughout the process, as well as veteran-specific treatment to address the underlying issues that caused them to offend. To ensure its effectiveness, the court requires a team of officials to work with the veteran and each other, including a representative from:

- the New York State Office of Court

Administration;

- the Dutchess County Department of Behavioral and Community Health;
- the Dutchess County Office of Probation and Community Corrections;
- the Dutchess County District Attorney's Office;
- the Dutchess County Public Defender's Office; and
- a local veterans advocacy organization.

The Dutchess County veterans treatment courts will be facilitated by MHA's Vet2Vet program, which helps connect service members with fellow veterans to help them find the services and resources they need to heal, including support groups, social activities, assistance in finding housing or employment, advocacy for benefits, and others. Vet2Vet and the other partner agencies will keep working with veterans after treatment to keep them engaged and on track for continued, sustained recovery.

Vet2Vet program director Anthony Kavouras said, "Our Vet2Vet program works to give veterans the opportunity to help fellow service members on their transition back home. The veterans treatment court will be another tool we can use to help veterans who are struggling with issues related to addiction, mental health, or homelessness and are faced with legal ramifications of their actions. I am grateful to the County and the Justices for their support of this initiative and their commitment to supporting our local heroes."

The model also requires the veteran to make regular court appearances, have mandatory attendance at treatment sessions, and undergo random and frequent testing for drug and alcohol use. Veterans facing violent felony charges are not eligible for participation in the veterans treatment court.

Dutchess County Office of Probation and Community Corrections Director and Chair of the Criminal Justice Council, Mary Ellen Still said, "Dutchess County remains committed to improving the criminal justice system. This collaboration will create another resource to make the system even more efficient and effective at helping those veterans who find themselves involved in it to receive the services and interventions they need to return to being successful members of society."

Dutchess County District Attorney William Grady said, "Our veterans have given so much to serve our country. Unfortunately, too many may find the transition home difficult as they process what they've experienced and learn how to 'turn off' the soldier to be a contributing member of their community. I am proud to support the veterans treatment court initiative and help these individuals get back on track to success."

Dutchess County Public Defender Tom Angell said, "The veterans treatment court will be a valuable resource to help our veteran clients, offering additional, veteran-specific treatments and alternatives to incarceration to increase the likelihood of achieving successful rehabilitation."

Adam Roche, Director of the Dutchess County Division of Veterans' Services, said, "Our veterans have served our country and we are here to serve them, particularly in times of need. The veterans treatment court will assist many local veterans in getting their lives in order following their service. I thank County Executive Molinaro, Judge Segal, Judge Johnson and the County's partners for recognizing the unique issues and needs of veterans. This court will have an immeasurable influence on our local heroes who have contributed so much to us all."

Applications for new round of Learn, Play, Create grants now being accepted

After announcing more than $690,000 in grant awards through the first round of its 2022 Learn, Play, Create: Supporting Our Kids grant program last month, Dutchess County is accepting applications for the second round of the 2022 program, which offers one-time grants awards to local non-profit organizations that serve children and families and were deprived of a year of fundraising or participation due to the COVID-19 pandemic. To be eligible for this second round of awards, organizations will need to demonstrate how their use of funds meets one or more domains of the County's Path to Promise, which ensures every child has access to the resources necessary to become successful young adults.

County Executive Marc Molinaro announced the Learn, Play, Create (LPC) grant program in June 2021 as part of his initiative to direct $57 million in one-time funding allocated to Dutchess County through the Federal Government's American Rescue Plan (ARP) to areas the community has recognized as priorities; 147 projects received LPC funding in 2021. In the 2022 county budget, the County Legislature approved $1 million in LPC grants, to be awarded in two rounds; the County Executive announced more than $362,000 in LPC awards in early June, followed by more than $328,000 in awards later that month.

Approximately $346,000 in LPC grants is available in this second round, with grants between $2,500 and $20,000 available to non-profit youth organizations that directly serve children, including teenagers and families and promote learning, arts enrichment and sports engagement. Application instructions and guidance will be available on the County's website, and applications can be submitted through an online portal starting July 6, 2022.

Molinaro said, "Over the past year, countless children have benefited from the projects funded through Dutchess County's Learn, Play, Create program. This next round of LPC awards will positively impact even more local kids through our innovative Path to Promise, ensuring the projects funded will provide the critical assets young people will need to thrive along their journey to adulthood. Dutchess County is proud to advocate for our children and give them the best opportunity to thrive while fostering their development."

Dutchess County's Path To Promise focuses on six areas that encompass the major elements of a child's growth process, referred to as domains. These six domains are:

- Learning – acquiring knowledge leading to the success of students in future college and career aspirations;
- Material Basics – providing for the basic needs of youth and families, including housing support and food;
- Safety – the feeling of being protected from danger, risk, or injury;
- Family/Social Relationships – having pro-social bonds with family, peers, and other adults providing opportunities for emotional and spiritual growth and support;
- Mental Health – opportunities to develop or support positive psychological and emotional well-being, including enrichment and leadership, and pro-social growth opportunities; and

- Physical Health – ensuring access to quality health care, opportunities for positive body growth and development, as well as access to appropriate and quality responses to cases in which children get sick or hurt.

Examples of possible funding awards for this second round of 2022 LPC awards include:

- A tutoring program to help middle-school students from low-income families in literacy, math, and science;
- Supplies for a youth mentoring program to foster positive adult and peer relationships;
- Instructions/lessons on how to care for and ride horses for youth living with mental illness
- Winter coats and/or food supplies for children in need;

- Supplies for an anti-bullying service or program in local schools;

- A skills clinic for player development at no cost for participants; and
- Materials and/or supplies for an organization to market a "pop-up" educational event/program, such as back-to-school preparation or new skill development, such as computer coding.

Applications for this second round will be accepted through Aug. 4th at 4 p.m., and awards will be announced in autumn 2022; funding should be utilized within one year of the award. Neither organizations which received previous LPC funding nor school districts, private and religious schools – including school-funded clubs and/or programs – and municipal-funded/sponsored departments or clubs are eligible for this round of LPC funding.

Rhinebeck High School celebrates Class of 2022

A sunny, warm afternoon was the perfect setting for Rhinebeck High School's Class of 2022 commencement on June 25 in the presence of family, friends, school district staff, administration, members of the Board of Education and school community.

The 72 class members were ushered onto the green by Principal Ed Davenport with Pomp and Circumstance performed by members of the Rhinebeck High School band under the direction of Laura Natalie.

Members of the class heard from several of their classmates, Superintendent Albert Cousins, Board of Education President Diane Lyons and guest speaker Rhinebeck High School English Teacher Stephanie Baird.

Salutatorian Evelyn Cooper reminded her classmates not to forget to follow their dreams and that there is more to life than good grades.

"I want you all to know you are all better than a bad grade or a missing assignment," said Cooper. "The strengths that you possess span much greater than academics and will be what leads to success in your future. If people didn't follow their dreams or utilize their abilities, who knows what we wouldn't have accomplished. Even if it's not obvious what your dream or passion is right now, rest assured that you'll find out soon enough."

Valedictorian Logan Dykeman recognized the opportunities that were found despite the challenges of a high school experience which was cut short by COVID-19.

"The pandemic was no doubt awful, but my family and I tried to make the best of it by taking the time to hike and reconnect with people I cared about the most - something I hadn't realized I was missing in my pre-COVID frenzied life," said Dykeman. "COVID initially awakened anxious feelings of uncertainty in our lives; however, if the uncertainty of life is met with perseverance, diligence, and faith in ourselves we will not only survive, we can do great things. Collectively we can make this world better because of what we have learned despite the unprecedented challenges of the COVID pandemic and because of our experiences while growing up in Rhinebeck. I'm ready to change the world. Class of 2022, Are YOU ready?"

Abilities First to launch comprehensive, inclusive web app

Abilities First has announced an award of a two-year grant from the Developmental Disabilities Planning Council. The $400,000 grant, pending The Office of the NYS State Comptroller approval, will develop and launch an online roadmap for families and people with intellectual and developmental disabilities to help them navigate the opportunities and options at different transition points throughout a person's lifespan.

Abilities First President and CEO Jeffery Fox, PhD and Abilities First Partnership CEO Matthew Bateman will co-chair a diverse Advisory Council to guide the development process of the comprehensive and inclusive web app under the working title, "Project Life Map."

The Project's Advisory Council, comprised of subject matter experts from across New York State, will collaborate with Abilities First in-house experts to prioritize and collate the essential materials and knowledge base to develop the interactive support tool and guide to statewide resources. Award Winning Hudson Valley App Designer Volum8 will collaborate with Abilities First on the product development.

"Abilities First looks forward to collaborating with critical industry stakeholders from across New York State, in leading the development of this critical online resource for families," said Melissa McCoy, Chief Advancement Officer for Abilities First.
