Molinaro: County does not have resources to enforce mask mandate

Local effort will be on vaccines, testing, education

by Kate Goldsmith

Late last week, Gov. Kathy Hochul announced a new mandate that requires masks to be worn in all indoor public places unless businesses or venues implement a vaccine requirement. Hochul cited the recent surge in COVID-19 cases and hospitalizations statewide for the order, and “to be in alignment with the CDC’s recommendations for communities with substantial and high transmission.”

County Executive Marc Molinaro

Since Thanksgiving, the statewide seven-day average case rate has gone from 34.02 per 100,000 to 51.98 per 100,000 on Dec. 11, the latest data available as the paper went to press. In Dutchess County, the average case rate went from 39.73 per 100,000 to 50.2 per 100,000 from Dec. 2 to 10. In that same time period, active cases jumped from 628 to 1,484; hospitalizations increased from 46 to 55 and deaths rose from 515 to 518. The infection rate was 5.72 percent on Dec. 10, according to the county’s COVID-19 Dashboard.

The CDC labels the county as an area of high transmission. The mandate became effective on Monday and will run through Jan. 15, 2022, when it will be re-evaluated based on conditions at the time.

“As Governor, my two top priorities are to protect the health of New Yorkers and to protect the health of our economy. The temporary measures I am taking today will help accomplish this through the holiday season,” said Hochul in a press release issued Dec. 10. “We shouldn’t have reached the point where we are confronted with a winter surge, especially with the vaccine at our disposal, and I share many New Yorkers’ frustration that we are not past this pandemic yet.”

Hochul thanked “the millions of New Yorkers who have done the right thing to get fully vaccinated.” She added, “We are all in this together, and if others will follow suit, these measures will no longer be necessary.”

A violation of any provision of this measure is subject to all civil and criminal penalties, including a maximum fine of $1,000 for each violation. Local health departments are being asked to enforce these requirements.

In a statement, Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro said the county won’t participate in enforcement; rather, it will “continue to facilitate testing and vaccines, encourage mask wearing, and educate individuals on how to assess their risk when out in public.” He reiterated the county’s priority is “the health and well-being of our residents.”

Molinaro noted that “the State has indicated counties should focus on education only for a minimum of the next

Resilient couple revives hardware store in Wingdale

The nostalgia – and challenges – of operating a small-town hardware store are alive and well with the Orlando family in the Dutchess County hamlet of Wingdale.

Ildiko, a native of Hungary, and Patrick describe themselves as “creative thinkers” and unemployable entrepreneurs who enjoy making money together.

They did that as property managers and “house flippers” in Bay Shore, Long Island before coming to the “peace and quiet” of the Hudson Valley. With Patrick’s background in property management and landscaping and Ildiko’s education in business administration and real estate, “one house became 60,” said Ildiko.

And a dozen years later, they found that perfect 1700-era farm house and five acres of land with their desired “beautiful view” in Wingdale.

That’s when it happened. They were renovating the farm house and selling veggies from their 100-foot greenhouse at a local farmers market when a fellow vendor mentioned that the local Wingdale Hardware Store of 25-plus years was going out of business and up for sale.

That’s when nostalgia set in. “I just said to myself, ‘We can’t lose this part of Americana. Every small town has to have a hardware store,’” said Patrick.

And then reality set in.

“The store was really going down hill. The tumbleweeds were blowing through the isles (so to speak),” said Ildiko. “It was a nerve-racking decision. We went back and forth for about three months. Could we really bring the store back from near death?”

That was two years ago. Today, the Orlando Family Hardware Store is full of up-to-date merchandise, bustling with customers ranging from contractors to DIY types and yes, all are enjoying and learning in a hardware store with an “old-time local flavor.”

“Reviving and running a hardware store was obviously the last thing on our minds when we moved here,” Ildiko said with a laugh. “But we dove into it.”

Patrick is a “jack of all trades” type of guy and has the hardware background and handles merchandise and customers, while Ildiko handles the bookkeeping. The most important thing is to “listen to our customers,” they said.

“We technically started from scratch,” Patrick said of the process. “We followed layout plans and updated each aisle with everything from basic and modern carpentry tools to all of the nuts and bolts, plumbing and electrical items, leaf and snow-blowers, generators – you name it.”

He also made trips to area hardware stores to educate himself and get the necessary ideas.

So, did they achieve success overnight?

“No. It took months and months,” said Ildiko. “There were days when we did not break even. We didn’t know if we could pay the rent, pay employees and keep the lights on. We kept asking ourselves if we made the right decision.”

But eventually the locals came in, saw the updated merchandise and began to feel confident that they could find whatever they needed. Helpful staff and owners just added to the new-found success, and word spread in the area.

Now the Orlandos have even made the deep-dive investment into items like Benjamin Moore Paints, Diablo blades and Milwaukee tools.

“We need to continue to give people real reasons to buy here vs. making the drive to larger cities,” said Patrick. “This is not a dead store front. It’s full of life and has everything they need and want. We are finally developing a good clientele.”

And that means employing another “tried and true” retail marketing tool.

“We know our customers and greet them by their first names. We’re getting a lot of new faces in the store, so that makes it a little difficult, but that’s a good problem to have,” said Ildiko. “Then we have to keep pushing forward and keep asking ourselves ‘What is the next item we can provide? What else do they need and want?”

Now, they’re moving forward with mailing out discount cards, adding home and kitchen items, gifts, local honey and syrup, lotions and items to attract women. They even added a seven-foot gorilla character up front to bring a smile to customers’ faces when they pull up. They also like taking part in local events like Halloween and parades.

“We’re fighting the good fight by keeping a local business and the community alive,” said Patrick. “We’re contributing to the local economy and we love the challenges.”

And that leads us to their next one. The couple also recently bought the Miller Hardware Store in Pleasant Valley. It’s another store that needs to be built back up. The Orlandos are putting to use what they have learned from their previous endeavors.

“It’s all about listening and learning from your customers,” said Patrick. “That’s basic, but that’s what keeps us going and moving forward.”

two weeks to garner community support and compliance, and we are actively working to assist businesses and other public facilities in better understanding this new state regulation.”

He also pointed to the state’s online FAQ, which is provided at the end of this article. It can answer many questions businesses and the general public might have about the mandate.

“Beyond this [two-week] period, Dutchess County has been advised against and will not divert critical health department resources away from other activities for the purpose of enforcement,” he said. “Dutchess County does not have the public health resources necessary to enforce this public health regulation. As Health departments are the only entity allowed to enforce this measure, all further questions or complaints [should be directed to] the NYS hotline: 1-888-364-3065.

“The Dutchess County Department of Behavioral and Community Health remains committed to our COVID-19 response through education and sharing information for residents about the importance of vaccination and other common sense mitigation measures, as well as ensuring community access and availability of testing, vaccinations and boosters,” Molinaro concluded.

Reaction to mandate

An indoor public place is defined as any indoor space that is not a private residence — businesses and venues New Yorkers frequent that are publicly owned or owned by private business. These entities include indoor entertainment venues, concert halls, indoor sports stadiums, recreational spaces, restaurants, office buildings, shopping centers, grocery stores, pharmacies, houses of worship and common areas in residential buildings.

Hochul’s announcement took many by surprise, prompting comments that it places an unfair onus on businesses, will create potential safety issues for employees and will be impossible to enforce.

Jim Calvin, President of the New York Association of Convenience Stores, issued a statement on behalf of its members.

“We appreciate the magnitude of the public health dilemma New York is facing, and the difficult choices our leaders must make to address it,” Calvin said. “Checking the vaccination status of everyone stopping in for their morning coffee would make convenience stores ‘inconvenience’ stores.”

He emphasized the difficult situation the mandate places on store employees.

“...Past experience has shown that when our stores are thrust into the role of mask police, bad things can and do happen, including sporadic violence directed at employees just trying to do their job.”

Calvin appealed to “valued customers” to cooperate “as we strive to implement this policy in a manner that keeps our stores accessible and our team members safe. And we hope our state leaders will reconsider the wisdom of potentially placing our essential workers in harm’s way.”

Sen. Sue Serino said, “Public health and safety always needs to come first, but the policies the state puts in place also need to be fair and balanced, and unfortunately too often the small business have had to bear the brunt of these mandates, without any voice in the process. Governor Hochul promised to do things differently, and that should start by being fully transparent in the process and actively engaging stakeholders who would be impacted by these decisions before making them unilaterally and without warning.”

She added, “I will continue to work with my colleagues to ensure that the voices of those impacted by these mandates are truly heard and to restore local control.”

Senate Republican Leader Rob Ort (Niagara County) called Hochul’s announcement “half-baked” and “a complete reversal from her previous comments.”

“She is now attempting to mandate that local governments and businesses do the impossible,” said Ort in a statement. “Like her predecessor, I believe the Governor has overstepped her authority with this order. I am reviewing options with my colleagues to rescind this authority and restore these public health decisions to local communities, where they belong.”

Louise McLoughlin, Executive Director at Dutchess County Workforce Investment Board, heard the news late Friday afternoon after returning from an employment and jobs seminar in Chicago. Already “knee-deep in trying to help county employers match up with potential workers to help solve a massive staffing shortage problem,” McLoughlin said she was, “at best, perplexed by the mandate and certainly a bit unprepared upon arriving back home to find out about the Governor’s decision.”

She said the mandate “presents yet another roadblock for business owners to overcome.” She added, “I don’t know for sure how this is going to affect things; but obviously we’re going to have to sit down and talk with local businesses to get some input and feedback.”

The state has set up an FAQ resource page at <https://coronavirus.health.ny.gov/node/13521> for more information about the mandate.

A call for community action

Dear Families, Friends and Neighbors,
Congress unanimously adopted the Pledge of Allegiance on June 22, 1942:
"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America;
and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

In those darkest days of World War II, we rallied to the call, put aside our differences, beat the enemy. Today, we face Covid. Without regard or remorse, this enemy takes our loved ones, ruins our businesses, isolates our children, divides our families, taxes us all.

In extraordinary times, Americans always have come together. We face the enemy and win the future. Like a chain, a strong community depends on each of us to act as one. Against Covid, we must:

- Vaccinate
- Mask
- Social distance

We can overcome Covid. Together!!!

Police training trends in the current environment

The Dutchess County Association of Chiefs of Police conducted a training course focused on police trends in the current environment on Nov. 18.

This eight-hour course covered the following topics: Use of Force in the current environment; The First Amendment - current trends; Qualified Immunity; and The Police, the Press & Social Media.

Attended by 89 Law Enforcement Officers from 26 local, county, city, state and federal agencies, and was held at Poughkeepsie Elks Lodge #275 in Poughkeepsie.

The Instructor, Eric Daigle, is from Daigle Law Group which is a leading law firm specializing in management consulting services in support and development of effective and constitutional policing practices. It also provides law enforcement training, policies and procedures, orders, manuals and training bulletins to the community.

President of the Dutchess County Chiefs of Police Association, Special Agent (Ret) Nicholas J. Valhos stated, "In these uncertain times there is nothing more valuable at critical moments than policing. Our profession of policing seems to be undergoing an unusual number of challenges, with no end in sight. Agencies across this country are struggling to identify and apply best practices to new or revised approaches for police officer training. Police leaders are focusing their attention and efforts to achieve both short and long-term goals for their departments in these demanding times. Some of these areas are use of force and de-escalation of force, training law enforcement on disinformation, social media, modern technology, and most importantly building the community's trust and community-based policing."

Valhos further stated, "It is important for the public to be aware that we are moving forward in all aspects of the current police environment of policing, and we are continuing to face the challenges of policing today, keeping Dutchess County communities and our police officers safe throughout this great nation."

With police departments across the nation under stress they have been challenged to maintain appropriate training programs to ensure officers are ready for split-second decisions while on duty.

Donation of Upper Landing Park will expand county's parks system

Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro recently announced the Dutchess County Parks system will be expanding to include Upper Landing Park in the City of Poughkeepsie, thanks to a generous donation from The Dyson Foundation. The Dutchess County Legislature last week voted unanimously to approve the acquisition of the 2.75-acre park from The Dyson Foundation.

Dutchess County Parks will take over responsibility for the maintenance and operation of this waterfront gem, including offering park programming and events.

Located off Water Street in the City of Poughkeepsie, Upper Landing Park sits on the Hudson River waterfront and is centrally located to many historic sites, tourism attractions and businesses and will be a connection point in the county's proposed Urban Trail network.

The Dyson Foundation originally purchased the property in 2012 and opened it as Upper Landing Park in 2013, providing an urban, waterfront park as well as access to the Walkway Over the Hudson Waterfront Elevator.

Molinaro said, "Upper Landing Park has long been a jewel of a park along the most consequential waterway in American history. With its ready access to many favorite destinations for Dutchess County residents and visitors alike, we are pleased to add this gem to our Dutchess County Parks system. We are grateful to The Dyson Foundation for their generous gift of this property and are confident it will improve the quality of life for Dutchess County residents."

The property has a rich history, first serving as hunting and fishing ground for Native Americans for thousands of years. It became one of the first areas to be settled in Dutchess County by Europeans and has served as homestead, mill site, commercial dock, Revolutionary War depot, industrial hub and electrical power generation source for the surrounding area.

Blood donors needed during holiday season

Nearly two years into the pandemic, everyone has earned a holiday break with their family and friends. But as the nation gathers again for celebrations this season, the American Red Cross, which provides 40% of the country's blood, is facing historically low blood supply levels.

Busy holiday schedules, breaks from school and winter weather all contribute to a drop in blood and platelet donations this time of year. Those factors, combined with the ongoing challenges of COVID-19, make it vital for donors to make an appointment to give as soon as possible. If more donors don't come forward to give blood, some patients requiring a transfusion may potentially face delays in care.

Donors are urged to schedule an appointment now by using the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). There is no blood donation waiting period for those who have received a flu shot or a Moderna, Pfizer or Johnson & Johnson COVID-19 vaccine or booster, so long as they are symptom-free.

To encourage donors to help address the historically low blood supply this holiday season, all who come to give Dec. 17-Jan. 2 will receive an exclusive Red Cross long-sleeved T-shirt, while supplies last.

Think DIFFERENTLY conference held Dec. 3

As Dutchess County prepared to recognize International Day of Persons with Disabilities on Dec. 3, County Executive Marc Molinaro and Deputy Commissioner for Special Needs Toni-Marie Ciarfella hosted the County's fifth annual Collaboration of Services and Care Across the Life Span for People with Special Needs, a virtual Think DIFFERENTLY conference for families and providers to discuss planning care for someone with intellectual and developmental disabilities. The event attracted dozens of families and providers.

Molinaro said, "It is vital that those with special needs and their families have an easy way to navigate through all the providers and services available to them. This annual conference is a great way to support these families, like my own, to be able to have a clear understanding and knowledge of the wealth of resources available. This event brings families and providers together to learn best practices for care as they assist their loved one through all stages of life. The connections made through this conference make a lifelong impact. Dutchess County is delighted to facilitate these connections and support those of all abilities throughout our area."

Karla Vermeulen, PHD, Deputy Director of the Institute for Disaster Mental Health and the Associate Professor of Psychology at SUNY New Paltz provided this morning's keynote address, discussing developmental tasks that characterize adolescence and emerging adulthood, multiple stressors young people experience today and how to apply these concepts to a child's individual functional levels.

Additionally, a group discussion including panelists from the County's departments of Community and Family Services and Behavioral & Community Health, as well as local services providers and state offices, shared insight and answer questions about eligibility and services for individuals with disabilities, from birth to childhood.

Deputy Commissioner Toni Ciarfella, PHD, shared, "We have a wonderful community committed to Think DIFFERENTLY and I am so proud we can offer the fifth annual conference, as it is so important for those with intellectual and developmental disabilities to have the most updated references and resources available to them and their families. Information is always available on our Think DIFFERENTLY.net website but this conference opens the dialogue between individuals, families, and providers, offering additional supports. Particularly during the COVID-19 pandemic, it is more important than ever to protect and provide for all those living with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Coming together to collaborate is the best way to create inclusion for all." More information about Dutchess County's efforts to Think DIFFERENTLY, as well as ways communities can be more supportive of those of every ability, is available at thinkdifferently.net.

Stamp Trotters of the Hudson Valley

Tools of the Philatelic Trade

In a recent post, we talked about what you might collect. Today, let's examine tools that make collecting easy. All tools we suggest are that: suggestions. But those we recommend will make collecting a little easier, probably more pleasurable, and are likely to keep your stamps in the best health.

Start with your stamps' home: this can be a pre-printed album, a stock book, or even just loose leaf pages in a binder. Albums are useful because they've already provided SOME organization, and often images. One trick some of us use is to buy a used album; not only do we get the album cheap, they often have stamps in them. Don't put a lot of money into the album, especially if you're just starting out. We often change our focus as we get deeper into collecting. Stock books, because there's no set order, facilitate that, at least until you decide what to focus on.

In a stock book, you insert stamps in slots that hold them tight. In albums or pages, you affix the stamps with hinges (or mounts). Hinges are bits of glassine with gum on one side; and most come pre-folded. Moisten the shorter side a little, affix to the back of your stamp; moisten the longer side now attached to your stamp, and carefully lay your hinged stamp into the album.

While doing that, most of us hold the stamp with "tongs," which look very much like tweezers but are made specifically for stamps. Most of us start with tongs with ends that look like duck bills, but they come in all shapes, lengths, and materials.

A magnifying glass wouldn't hurt now, either. Sometimes it is useful to see details too small for the naked eye. I have all sorts, everything from 2X to 25X, and some with their own built-in light, all the better to see with.

The beginning collector might not be interested in knowing more about the stamps; if you do, there are catalogues you can use. Most American collectors use Scott catalogues. The most recent edition has 13 volumes, organized by country alphabetically. If you're only collecting Ireland, then you only need the volume that covers I; if you collect the world, ultimately you want them all. New ones are VERY expensive, but older used ones are cheaper, sometimes free (our club frequently has them cheap or free).

One last item to consider is a perforation gauge, which measures the "teeth" on the edges of a stamp. Some stamps look like one another, differentiated only by the number of teeth. There are many different kinds of gauges: paper, metal, clear plastic, each with its own advantages.

Our next regular club meeting will be in January due to the holidays. We meet every second and fourth Thursday at the Red Hook VFW. You're always welcome to visit, check us out, ask questions about all these mysterious things or stamps. You can also call or text 845-681-9837 for more information.

Jewish War Veterans mark 125th anniversary

Representatives of the Private Herman Siegel Post 625, the local post of the Jewish War Veterans of the USA, accepted a proclamation from Assemblymember Didi Barrett commemorating the 125th anniversary of the national organization. Assemblymember Didi Barrett, Chair of the NYS Assembly's Veterans Affairs Committee, sponsored a resolution commending the Jewish War Veterans (JWV) of the United States of America on their 125th anniversary, and paying tribute to its members for their outstanding contributions to our nation.

Representatives of the local post, Private Herman Siegel Post 625, JWV of the USA, accepted the proclamation from Barrett at a ceremony held at her Poughkeepsie office.

JWV is the oldest continuously active veterans' organization in America, founded in 1896 by Jewish veterans of the Civil War to counteract the public misconception that Jews did not fight for their country. JWV advocates for the rights and benefits of all military personnel and veterans, fights antisemitism and racism, shares camaraderie and conducts service programs to support members of our military and those who have served.

All persons of the Jewish faith who have served in any branch of the regular military, Guard or Reserve, in wartime or peace, are invited to join the Post. There are also categories of membership for non-veterans who would like to support the organization.

For information, visit the Post on Facebook and contact pvthermansiegelpost625@yahoo.com.

MOW of Greater Hyde Park receives Field Hall grant

Meals on Wheels of Greater Hyde Park has announced they have received a $7,500 grant from the Field Hall Foundation.

Jack Fenton, president of the Board of Directors for Meals on Wheels of Greater Hyde Park, said the larger portion of the grant, $6,500, will be used toward the cost of the paper goods needed to deliver the meals and personal protective equipment needed in both food preparation and in delivering meals.

Fenton said, "With the rising costs of paper goods and food, this grant is critical for us to meet our goal of providing home-delivered meals at a reasonable price ($23 per week) to our clients in the greater Hyde Park area and the Village of Rhinebeck."

The remaining $1,000 will be used to assist clients if they experience an unexpected financial emergency on a one-time basis.

"Seniors and others are still facing difficult financial times due to the pandemic," said Fenton.

Field Hall Foundation's mission is to improve the lives of older adults and their caregivers in Westchester, Putnam and Dutchess counties. They can be reached at fieldhallfoundation.org.

Renegades ownership changes to DBH

by Rich Thomaselli

The Hudson Valley Renegades, the area's minor league baseball team for 27 years, will be under new ownership for the 2022 season.

The Goldklang Group – headed by well-respected and longtime minor league owner Marvin Goldklang, who is also a limited partner of the New York Yankees for 30 years – has sold the Renegades to Diamond Baseball Holdings (DBH), a subsidiary of the Endeavor Group.

The Renegades will continue to be led by GM/President Steve Gliner.

"Joining DBH is a meaningful step toward furthering our commitment to contributing meaningfully to the local community," Gliner said in a statement. "The Hudson Valley deserves a next level experience in minor league baseball, with the same ballgame traditions they've known and loved. I trust that joining DBH will serve everyone well into the future. We are excited to begin the next chapter of our rich history here at Dutchess Stadium."

Little will change. Gliner is back, the Renegades will still exist, will still play at Dutchess Stadium, and will still be the High Class A affiliate of the New York Yankees.

As part of DBH, Gliner will work closely with Diamond Baseball

Holdings' leadership, Pat Battle and Peter B. Freund. Battle is Executive Chairman of DBH, bringing extensive experience at the local and national level. He is currently Chairman of the Board of Learfield and serves as an advisor to Endeavor across multiple companies.

Freund is CEO of DBH, also bringing to the plate experience as a longtime Minor League Baseball owner and operator. Freund most recently consulted with the Office of the Commissioner of Baseball on the transition of Major League Baseball's licensed affiliates while spearheading the formation of the MLB Draft League.

"Diamond Baseball Holdings will be global in our ambitions and hyper-local in our approach and creating incredible fan experiences will remain our number one priority," said Battle and Freund. "Additionally, we look forward to providing opportunities for growth to the employees of PDL Clubs whose passion and ingenuity have built the sport through the decades."

"As a long time Minor League owner and operator, I am thrilled that Hudson Valley will now be part of such a dynamic new group of clubs," said Goldklang. "I have known Peter Freund for almost 15 years and have every confidence that with him at the helm, Diamond Baseball Holdings will continue to build on our legacy which we are incredibly proud of."

4-H students embrace agriculture in Dutchess County

Dutchess County has 31 active 4-H Clubs of which 17 specialize in agricultural animals, including hogs, dairy, beef, goats, llamas and alpacas, sheep, horses, rabbits and poultry.

Here in Dutchess we still have a strong focus on our agricultural roots. Supported in part by Dutchess County, youth of all abilities are already working on their year-round projects in preparation for the 2022 season.

Thanks to the Berkshire Taconic Community Foundation in November, 4-H partnered with the Dover Free Union School District to offer a weekly after-school program held at Dover (grades 3-5) and Wingdale Elementary (grades K-2) Schools entitled "Our World of Food and Farms."

In session one, 'Fruity Facts,' the kids did an experiment to find strawberry DNA! Session Two was all about eggs, and with the help of 4-H Intern Julia Raskopf and her real live chickens, the students left knowing many interesting eggy facts. This program is in partnership with grace Immigrant Outreach and planned to continue through 2022.

Supporting Our Veterans

Our first Veterans Day program was a huge success. Ten youth attended and got to learn the real meaning of the day. Highlights included hearing stories from veterans in the community, trying out genuine MRE's (Meals Ready to Eat), baking cookies for veterans and making commemorative poppies.

Our partnership with American Legion Post 178 in Millerton (who heavily support the Dutchess County Long Rifles 4-H Club) made this possible and it is slated to become an annual event.

For more information on 4-H Clubs in Dutchess County, contact Jane Rodd at jr825@cornell.edu.

Blooming Kids 4-H Club members really do Bloom!

Based in and around Millbrook, the Blooming Kids Club have an exciting year planned.

They started the year with enthusiasm, turning out to decorate a float and join with Pony Tails 4-H Club in the Millbrook Parade of Lights. Thanks to support from Millbrook Garden Club, they will be learning by taking trips to some of the outstanding gardens in the state. The highlight is a trip to the NY Botanical gardens planned for early summer 2022.

Meanwhile, they are really enjoying meeting and working on their two major projects of the year.

Project One is to create a club banner which will illustrate what they are all about and be exhibited at the 2022 Fair. Project Two is the ongoing partnership with Millbrook Middle School to expand the vegetable garden and grow food for educational classes and local food pantries.

The new garden shed should arrive any time now thanks in part to Bay Horse Gazebos! If you are interested in joining Blooming Kids, contact Andrea in the 4-H Office for more information at ajr274@cornell.edu.

SUDOKU

Sudoku requires no arithmetic skills.

The object of the game is to fill all the blank squares with the correct numbers.

Each row of 9 numbers must include all digits 1 through 9 in any order.

Each column of 9 numbers must include all digits 1 through 9 in any order.

Each 3 by 3 subsection of the 9 by 9 square must include all digits 1 through 9.

The heavy lines indicate areas, called cages, from one to five squares in size. Fill each cage with unique digits, counting up from 1. So for example a 2-square cage contains the numbers 1 and 2; and a 5-square cage contains the numbers from 1 to 5. Adjacent (touching) squares, even ones that touch diagonally, may never contain the same number.

Guitarist ‘coming home’ for area performance

by Kate Goldsmith

Poughkeepsie-born musician and John Jay High School graduate Jay Kacherski is excited to return to the area for a “coming home” concert as part of the Texas Guitar Quartet. The performance, set Friday, Dec. 17, at 8 p.m., is part of the Pawling Concert Series season.

“I grew up in the Hopewell Junction/Fishkill area and went to high school at John Jay (Class of ’96),” Kacherski said via email. He left for college and then lived and studied in various places around the United States and abroad.

Kacherski currently resides in Louisiana and, in addition to his work with the Texas Guitar Quartet, is the guitar instructor at Loyola University of New Orleans, University of New Orleans, McNeese State University, & NOCCA - the New Orleans Center for Creative Arts. He is also artistic director of the Houston Classical Guitar Festival & Competition; director of the Francis G. Bulber Youth Orchestra Guitar Program; and director of the Loyola Guitar Festival.

“This concert at Pawling will be my first performance in the area, so it is quite a special concert for me,” he said. “I have played all around the world, but this is a ‘coming home’ concert after all these years.”

Formed in 2009, Texas Guitar Quartet has been described as “impeccable in every respect” by Classical Guitar Magazine. In tours throughout the United States, Central America, Spain and China, audiences have embraced the quartet for their daring programs, dazzling virtuosity and joyful music making. Their programming involves creative arrangements of orchestral works by familiar composers including Bach, Mozart, Beethoven and Ravel, as well as contemporary works.

The concert will be held in the Gardiner Theater at Trinity-Pawling School, 700 Route 22 in Pawling. Tickets are $30; students pay $15 and children younger than 12 are admitted free. Visit www.pawlingconcertseries.org to purchase and for more information.

The Pawling Concert Series requires that all those who attend its concerts in this month are fully vaccinated and wear masks when in Gardiner Theater. Concert-goers must show proof of vaccination to attend these concerts.

‘Lost Christmas’ next Movies With Spirit film screening

The BBC movie “Lost Christmas,” a heartwarming urban fairy tale of love, loss and second chances, is the next Movies With Spirit screening, at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 18, at St. James United Methodist Church, 35 Pearl St. in Kingston.

The tale — with shades of “It’s a Wonderful Life,” “A Christmas Carol” and “Oliver Twist” — takes us into the life of a 10-year-old boy, “Goose” (Larry Mills), who causes a series of heartrending losses due to his seemingly innocent action.

Goose lives with his parents in Manchester, England. On Christmas Eve, he hides his father’s car keys after his father, a fireman, gets called to an emergency rescue. Goose doesn’t want his dad to leave. But Goose’s mother finds her keys and drives his dad instead. A few minutes later, both parents are killed in a car crash.

The guilt-ridden, orphaned Goose — once bright and cheery — becomes a troubled kid supporting his enfeebled grandmother (Sorcha Cusack) through petty street crime.

Goose’s dog, Mutt — who his parents had given to him just before they drove off — is the only thing keeping the boy grounded.

Mutt gets lost the following Christmas Eve day. In Goose’s desperate search for him, he meets a mysterious, amnesia-suffering stranger named Anthony (Eddie Izzard), who knows nothing about himself other than his name, which is pinned to his coat.

Oddly, though, Anthony seems to know Goose. He also realizes that Goose and everyone else he meets have lost something. Even more oddly, Anthony has a baffling ability to help those people find what they lost.

An ensuing mystery follows, with Anthony drawing in Frank (Jason Flemyng), a former friend of Goose’s father who is now lost in life after being estranged from his family; an elderly woman who recently lost a precious bangle; an elderly doctor who lost his wife decades earlier; and a mother who lost her daughter in an accident a year earlier.

But at the center of the mystery is Anthony himself: Who is he? How does he know nothing about himself and so much about other people? And is Anthony’s ability to find lost things real or just an illusion?

The 2011 film earned an International Emmy Award as the best made-for-TV film for children produced and premiering outside the United States.

The movie runs 90 minutes and is rated PG. The screening will be followed by a facilitated discussion. Refreshments will be served.

Attendees over age 12 are asked to contribute $10 a person.

Movies With Spirit screenings comply with all federal, state and local health and safety protocols, including those of the screening venues.

For more information about “Lost Christmas” and the rest of the series, contact Harrington at (845) 389-9201 or at gerryharrington@mindspring.com. Details are also available at facebook.com/MoviesWithSpirit.

‘The Nightmare Before Christmas’ set Dec. 17 at UPAC

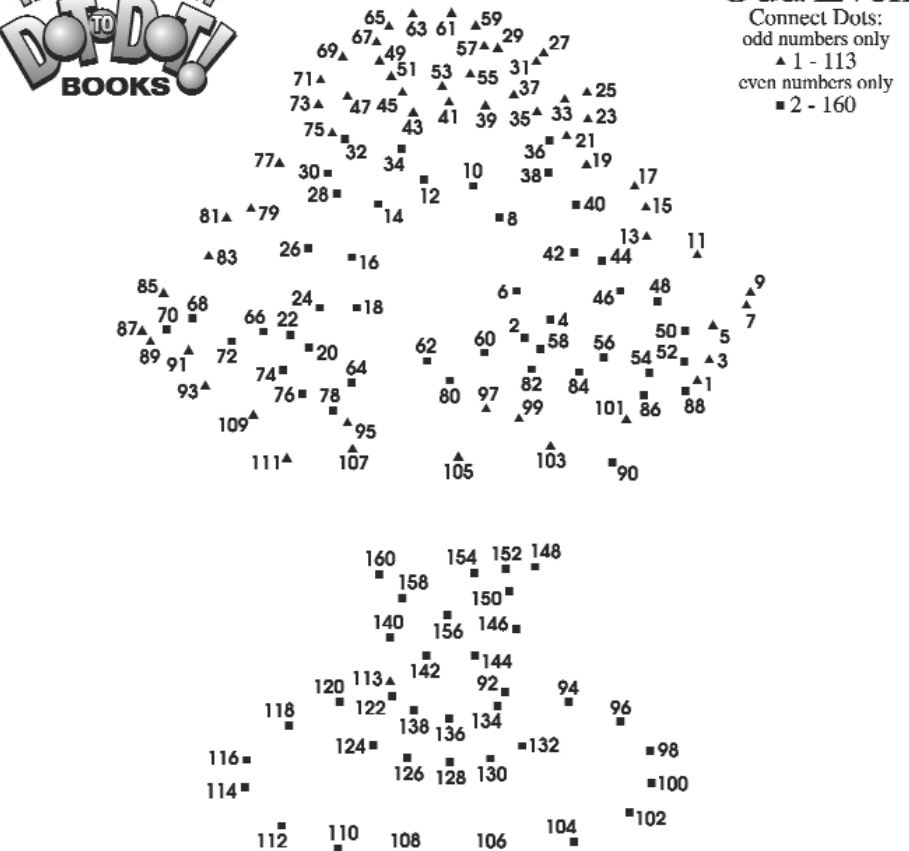

The Bardavon will present “The Nightmare Before Christmas” (1993) on the big screen at UPAC in Kingston on Friday, Dec. 17, at 7:30 p.m. In this trail-blazing claymation holiday hit from producer Tim Burton, Jack Skellington, the leader of Halloweentown, schemes to celebrate a very different Christmas. The visuals plus Danny Elfman’s marvelous music and lyrics are simultaneously horrifying and heartwarming.

In the lobby, Lambe Lambe, a multiple stage small puppet theater presentation by Paperheart puppets, will precede and follow the film with a holiday fantasy experience for all ages.

All seats are $6. Bardavon Members get in free. Call (845) 473-5288 (Bardavon) or (845) 339-6088 (UPAC), or email boxoffice@bardavon.org to purchase tickets.

A year-end message on DCHS accomplishments

by Rob Doyle
DCHS Board President

We believe that two pandemic years have not dimmed, but have only reinforced the value and strength of Dutchess County Historical Society (DCHS).

Growing membership and growing event attendance (online) indicates that more people endorse the idea that our mission to preserve and share the values, stories, people and experiences of the past allows us better understand and appreciate the present, and plan for the future.

We invite everyone who can to make a contribution this calendar year. Regular contributions are our only source of funding. We do not receive any taxpayer funding, whether Federal, State or County; we rely only on contributions from individuals (and businesses) like you.

Allow me to review a few of the things your support is enabling.

Major Caroline Clowes Exhibition Nov./Dec.

We are very pleased to announce that the pandemic-delayed exhibition of the restored works of the LaGrange artist, Caroline Morgan Clowes, is expected to be launched and open during the months of November and December, 2022. We will be sharing news as plans become firm.

Our Yearbook hit a milestone!

The 100th volume of the DCHS Yearbook is published! Congratulations and many thanks to Candy Lewis. This is the eighth volume published under her leadership and role as editor. Each is a landmark publication individually, and remarkable as a set. All Yearbooks, since 1914, are now available online on our website. The 3 most recent years are available only to paid member/donors.

Our role as archival guardian

An example of the types of items entrusted to us include a wide range of items from the important Bockee family of Amenia and North East. There are two beautiful, early 19th-century husband and wife portraits, a civil war medical chest, and documents and photographs that give us insight into the medical side of the Civil War, the home life of families involved in local government and justice, and the students of the Bockee school.

Preservation, sharing through digital works

DCHS member/donor benefits include online access to the three most recent Yearbooks, access to 600 local postcards, and a quarterly spotlight on Collections, which currently features the Civil War diaries of Edmund Platt, and additional choices at dchsnny.org/short. Images courtesy of DCHS

We continue to make progress in the digitization of the extraordinary photographs in the DCHS Frank and Baltus B. Van Kleeck Collection, including the oldest known photograph of Poughkeepsie from 1850. Some of these images are available as printed notecards. See online member/donor payment page at dchsnny.org/short.

2022 Awards

We are now scheduling our annual awards to coincide with our regular annual meeting in April. The exact date is not yet fixed. We will share details as they get confirmed.

Virtual Event Space, upcoming programs

The success of offering live events, which then become permanently available in the DCHS Virtual Event Space on demand, means we will continue to look for both business and individual sponsors to allow us to bring programs forward at no charge for viewing.

Some of the 2021 programs now available on demand include: • The 300th Anniversary of Dutchess County Courts with County Historian Will Tatum

- The Local Campaign for Woman Suffrage with Sandra Opdycke
- Living History & Historic Reenacting as Tools for Teaching the Past with Neil Murray

We hope you will be able to join us for the upcoming virtual events in 2022:

- New Hamburg: A Dutchess County River Hamlet, with DCHS President Rob Doyle, Thursday, Jan. 13, at 7 p.m.
- Consequence of Freedom: The Rise & Fall of Hyde Park's New Guinea Community, with DCHS Executive Director Bill Jeffway, Wednesday, Feb. 9 at 7 p.m.

In summary

We offer our most sincere wishes for a peaceful, healthy, happy holiday season and bright New Year. We hope we have earned your continued endorsement and support of our work. We believe it has never been more important. You may pay through our secure online payment at: dchsnny.org/short. Or mail a check to DCHS, PO Box 88, Poughkeepsie, NY 12602.

A short video at dchsnny.org/short called "We believe" explains the mission and values of DCHS and examples of things thare important to preserve, like the story of the women's suffrage leader of a century ago Nina Mattern McCulloch, see above in a World War One era silent movie training film on canning. The Christmas Tree

Mom teaches Luigi and Vinny a lesson in patience.

I remember growing up realizing that we were a typical Italian Family. I realized we were typical, after going to a friend's house, whose parents came from Italy also, and seeing how their house was decorated, and discovered it looked just like ours.

For one, we had a gold colored velvet couch with plastic covering, just like theirs. We also had a forest green velvet matching chair with plastic on it. Theirs was burgundy colored. Curtains consisted of gold colored heavy velvet drapes with green tiebacks, same as theirs but with burgundy tie backs. And to finish it off, forest green shag carpet. Ding, ding, ding! Just like theirs! On top of it, we had clear plastic runners on the carpet. That's was how our living room was set up, and we were never allowed in it. Ever.

That is, until Christmas time.

You see, that is where we would put up our artificial jigsaw puzzle Christmas tree of death. The artificial jigsaw puzzle Christmas tree of death consisted of four layers. The bottom layer had red tagged branches made of spun wire with green plastic needles. The ends were sharp and would cut your fingers when you tried to put them in the green slotted metal pole that was labeled to make it more confusing. The second layer of the artificial jigsaw puzzle Christmas tree of death had yellow tagged branches followed by blue tags, with the top portion an all in one piece that had to be bent back into shape.

Now when you put this tree together, there was always those two or three branches with no label on them, so you had to figure out where they went. All of this was stored in a giant cardboard box held together with masking tape. The box ceased to be cardboard years earlier when the masking tape began to hold it together, and now it was just a masking tape box.

You know, I never understood why they never sold artificial trees in a storage box. Hmmm. Not a bad idea.

Anyway, every year just before Thanksgiving, my brother Vinny and I would drag out the giant masking tape Christmas tree box from the basement corner where it was stored and put it in the middle of the basement floor, figuring it would start to subliminally influence mom while she washed clothes, which was all the time.

It was also at that time that we would start to bug mom to put it up. We would beg, plead, and cry to put it up daily. Mom would say, not till after Thanksgiving and not till she thoroughly cleaned the living room, which we were never allowed to be in and therefore was completely spotless.

One year, Vinny and I decided we would put up the tree without permission. Mom went to work at the restaurant and then we started with our diabolical scheme.

Ring! Ring!

Mom: Tanka you for calliga Coppola's Hyda Park. Howa cana I help you.

Me: Mom this is Luigi. Can we put up the Christmas Tree?

Mom: Ima ata work!

Me: Please! We cleaned the living room for you! Please.

Mom: Luigi! Ima gonna ... The bathroom isa downa the hall ... Please no doa this.

Me: We won't make a mess. We promise.

Mom: Luigi, ifa you no listena to me, I'ma gonna ... yes, youra table shesa a ready.

Me: Please.

Mom: We gonna talka about when I getta home. Okay?

Me: Okay?

Well when I hung up the phone, all I heard was okay. So Vinny and I dragged up from the basement the giant cardboard masking tape box with the artificial jigsaw puzzle Christmas tree of death in it, and started to put it up. We brought up all the decorations, the lights, the manger, etc. We decorated the entire living room from top to bottom.

When Mom got home, Johnny Mathis was singing Christmas carols, all the Christmas lights were on, and there was even a fire in the fireplace. When she saw the living room all decorated, well let's just say she yelled more Italian than English at us. There were some other words that I'm not quite sure what language it was in, but Vinny and I got the gist of her argument.

When she got done yelling at us, we had to take everything down, put the artificial jigsaw puzzle Christmas tree of death back into the giant masking tape cardboard box, all the lights and decorations and bring it all back downstairs.

The next day we had to help her make the first batch of Rococo, a donut-shaped crispy Italian Christmas cookie made with hazelnuts. Not a bad punishment? Well we had to help her, but we couldn't have any, till Christmas.

ROCOCO

Ingredients:
16 oz. Flour
8 oz. ground hazelnuts
8 oz. white sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder

2 oz. unsalted butter, softened grated rind of 1 lemon grated rind of 1 orange
1/2 cup water
2 eggs
1 pinch grated nutmeg

Method:
Pre-heat the oven to 300 degrees.
Combine flour, ground hazelnuts, sugar and baking powder in a bowl. Add the butter and mix it with your hands so mixture just comes together.
Add the lemon and orange zest, water, beaten eggs and nutmeg. Mix well with your hands to form a soft dough.
Cut small pieces of about 1 inch from the dough, and roll them into thin sticks, using a floured surface in order to make them less sticky. Shape each stick into a small doughnut shape and overlap the ends.
Transfer to oven pans lined with parchment paper. Bake for about 30-45 minutes or until golden. Let the cookies sit until cool. Serve with espresso.

Luigi Coppola is one of five brothers born to Francesca and Antonio Coppola. The Coppola family came to America from Naples, Italy in 1954. Antonio and his brothers opened their first restaurant in Poughkeepsie in 1961. Luigi and his brothers Nick, John, Antonio and Vincent have carried on the family tradition in the way their parents taught them, using classic recipes taught to them at their apron strings. NEWS FROM THE OLD DUTCH VILLAGE GARDEN CLUB

All is merry and very bright!

by Pat Owens

The Old Dutch Village Garden Club is at it again decorating for the holidays. The memorial garden looked wonderful throughout the Fall season with cornstalks and pumpkins ushering in the winter. Once the wintry weather hits, the Garden Club elves get moving on a holiday theme.

This December eleven "elves" directed by Linda Lawson, our intrepid garden magician, have installed great adornments. All week before, preparations were ongoing leading up to the installation. For those of you who pass by the garden frequently, you will recognize the garden plan as described. Around the central Dutch Mill birdhouse are four antique sleds which, along with the corner posts, are festooned with garlands, greens and large Buffalo plaid bows. Snowmen guard the Garden Club sign and there are unopened gifts waiting on the concrete benches. The trellis which is heavy with clematis during the summer is sporting a package- filled sleigh. Sprinkled all over are lots and lots of lights, some even mimicking a Christmas tree, and lots of festive bows and icicles. It is truly a winter wonderland.

Strolling by the garden, the outside park benches also have garland, ribbons and little birds. This was a huge effort made easier by a talented group of members. Some new members jumped right in to help and share their ideas.

The Old Dutch Village Garden Club meets on the second Thursday of each month, except for August, at St. John's Reformed Church in Upper Red Hook at 12:30. Should you wish to join us, and we hope that you will, please contact Linda Lawson at (845) 758-5653 for additional information. New members and visitors are always welcome. Remember, there are no requirements: you do not have to know anything, you do not even need a garden!

Marist men fall to Navy, 67-61; Women's team deals with injuries

by Rich Thomaselli

After winning two straight games, the Marist College men's basketball fell under .500 with a 67-61 loss to Navy on Sunday at McCann Arena.

The Red Foxes are now 4-5 overall. Marist started slowly and couldn't come all the way back. Six straight points from Jaylen Walker, including a three-pointer, staked Navy to a 12-4 lead at the 14:25 mark of the first half.

The Midshipmen extended their lead to 22-9 at the 9:40 mark thanks to a 10-0 run. Back-to-back three-pointers by Samkelo Cele and Ricardo Wright cut Marist's deficit to five, but Navy countered with a 14-0 run and led 41-22 at halftime.

Early in the second half, Marist embarked on a 14-0 run to cut its deficit to eight. Wright had 10 points in that run, including a pair of three-pointers.

Later, Jao Ituka scored seven straight points to bring Marist within six with 9:33 to go. However, the Red Foxes did not come any closer. Navy's lead stayed between six and 12 points the rest of the way, and Ituka's three-point play in the closing seconds cut the final margin to six.

Wright had game highs with 18 points and seven rebounds. He scored 15 of his points in the second half. Ituka finished with 17 points and shot 6-for-9 from the field. He scored 13 points in the second half.

Cele (10 points) gave Marist three double-digit scorers.

Anthony Nelson led four Navy double-digit scorers with 13 points.

The Marist women's basketball team has been on an unwanted break since December 5. A combination of injuries to at least three players and COVID has paused team activities due to institutional protocols.

At one point, the Red Foxes were down to eight players and the program had to cancel a game against Stony Brook.

Following semester final exams this week, Marist's next scheduled game is Saturday, Dec. 18 at Fairfield.

State agency offers tips to prevent household fires this holiday season

The New York State Division of Homeland Security and Emergency Services' Office of Fire Prevention and Control (OFPC) encourages New Yorkers to follow best practices to prevent household fires during the upcoming holiday season.

Year-end holidays, in combination with the winter months, bring an increased risk of fire and carbon monoxide poisoning due to cooking fires, the use of heating equipment and fires from decorations and candles. To help increase awareness of fire dangers, the OFPC produced a short video (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ooVWRuCKG7k>) to emphasize the importance of following simple fire prevention steps this winter which can prevent potential disasters and life-threatening emergencies.

Christmas, along with Thanksgiving, are peak days for home-cooking fires. Cooking is by far the leading cause of home fires year-round, with unattended cooking serving as the leading cause.

Reduce fire dangers by:

- Never leave cooking unattended.
- If you have a small fire while cooking on the stove top, smother the flames by sliding a lid or baking sheet over the pan and turning off the burner until cooled.
- For an oven fire, turn off the heat and keep the oven door closed.
- Keep children away from the stove and areas where hot food is being prepared.

Holiday decorations and candle fires can also contribute to home fires. Christmas tree fires are more common during the hours when people are awake, and most fires start in the living room, family room or den. Electrical failures or malfunctions were factors in almost one-third of Christmas tree fires, and heat sources, such as a candle or equipment too close to a tree, also contributed to fires.

Reduce holiday decoration and candle fires by:

- Inspecting a string of lights for worn or broken cords. Always read manufacturer's instructions for number of light strands to connect.
- Minimizing the use of extension cords and multi-plug devices.
- Keeping lit candles away from decorations and combustibles. Always keep them out of reach of children and pets, and never leave a candle burning unattended.

- Always turning off electrical tree lights before leaving home or going to bed.

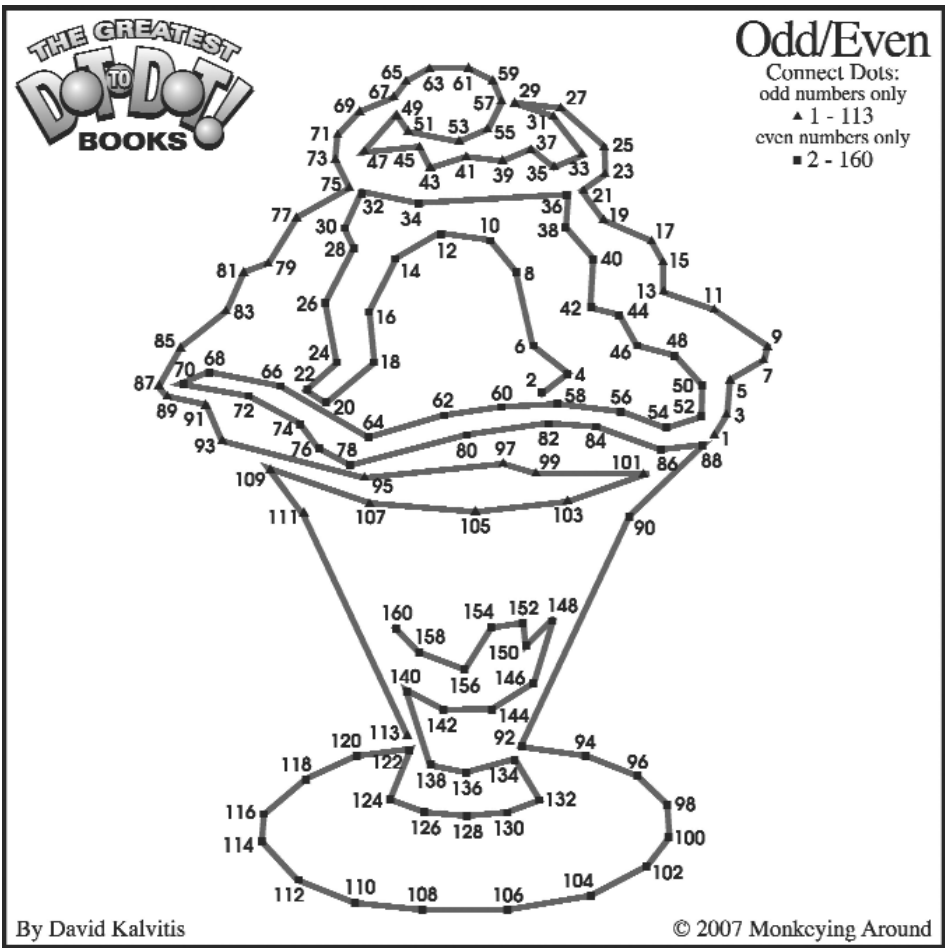

- Don't forget to water your real tree to prevent it from drying out.

Another area of concern during the holidays and winter season centers around the use of home heating equipment. Heating equipment is a leading cause of fires in U.S. homes. Nearly half of all home heating fires occur in December, January and February. A vast majority of home heating fires involve stationary or portable space heaters. Another cause of home heating fires includes poorly maintained solid-fueled heating equipment, primarily chimneys.

Tips to help prevent home heating fires include:

- Have a qualified professional clean and inspect your chimney, vents and heating equipment yearly.
- Keep combustibles at least three feet away from heating equipment.
- Always plug appliances including space heaters directly into a receptacle. Never plug appliances into a power strip or extension cord.

Consumer Directed Choices launches new Virtual Homecare Workforce Hiring Portal

Consumer Directed Choices, Inc. (CDChoices), a non-profit organization providing Fiscal Intermediary payroll and program administration services to seniors and people with disabilities, has launched an enhanced, easy-to-use workforce recruitment portal to connect individuals in need of home care services with “personal assistants” or caregivers.

CDChoices believes that this new technology will streamline the hiring process and provide consumers and personal assistants with an easy, seamless experience.

Through CDChoices and New York State’s Consumer Directed Assistance Program, consumers control their own care by searching, interviewing, hiring, and training personal assistants. Given the national shortage of homecare employees, CDChoices proactively enhanced and simplified its recruitment platform to attract more users.

“We recognize the difficulty of recruiting personal assistants and the lack of attention paid to the home care industry, which is one of the fastest-growing sectors in the state,” says Christopher Graber, Chief Executive Officer of CDChoices. “New York currently has the greatest shortage of home care workers in the nation. We want to do our part to help our consumers increase their ability to attract, recruit, and retain dedicated workers.”

Once a profile is created, a CDChoices consumer can search for personal assistants who match the specific care criteria they need. Similarly, personal assistants can search based on their own criteria and apply for specific job assignments that consumers have posted. Jobs feature full-time, part-time, and per diem.

Portal features include:

- Direct Messaging – The workforce recruitment portal will enable secure, direct communications between consumers and personal assistants within the system. This feature will alert users by email or mobile text message each time they receive a communication in the portal. Not only does this protect user privacy, but it is an efficient way to communicate in real-time before scheduling an interview.

- Sort and Filter Options – The workforce recruitment portal will enable a “sort” feature that allows consumers to organize applicants by their most recent log-in, profile creation date, and location to review potential workers residing closest to their home. The “filter” option will allow users to refine their search for a specific shift(s) they may need to fill, desired skill(s), language preference(s), and location radius (e.g., 10-miles from their home).

- Saved Search Criteria & Job Posting Management – The workforce recruitment portal will allow users to save any searches they have completed within the system. They can choose to receive email and/or text notifications if there are new matches for their saved search criteria. Users can set different frequencies for receiving notifications, and finally, consumers can renew/repost the job when it expires. This will ensure the jobs posted within the portal are up-to-date and tailored to the consumer’s needs.

“I am very impressed with the new portal and format,” says Lori Rappleyea, a consumer using CDChoices. “It will be much easier to look for a specific type of qualified person for a personal assistant position.”

Visit the website to learn if you are eligible for CDChoices through the Consumer Directed Personal Assistance Program (CDPAP). To learn more about becoming a personal assistant and creating a profile, visit portal.cdchoices.org.

County Exec Molinaro, Pulver tour farm receiving ‘Learn, Play, Create’ award

County Executive Marc Molinaro and Legislature Chairman Gregg Pulver visit with children at the Hope Rising Farm. Courtesy photos

Hope Rising Farm Therapeutic Riding Center recently invited Dutchess County Executive Marc Molinaro and Gregg Pulver, Chairman of the Dutchess County Legislature, to tour its Millerton farm, which recently received an award of $17,900 through the County’s “Learn, Play, Create: Supporting Our Kids” grant program.

The grant will assist the facility purchase a lift, specialized saddles and supports, and an all-season mechanical horse to accommodate young people, including children and those who lack the necessary balance and core strength to mount or ride without supports. You can watch a video of the tour at https://youtu.be/P4M0MGr2_5U.

The program is part of the “Dutchess Invests” initiative to direct $57 million in one-time funding allocated to Dutchess County through the Federal Government’s American Rescue Plan (ARP) to areas the community recognized as priorities. Dutchess County has awarded its allocated $3 million for the program in 2021 to fund 147 projects by local non-profits organizations that directly serve children – enhancing and empowering opportunities for children to learn, play and create, while filling an educational, financial, social and/or emotional void because of the quarantine and stay-at-home orders necessitated by the COVID-19 pandemic.

In October, Molinaro proposed expanding “Learn, Play, Create” in 2022 by allocating $500,000 for the program.

Earning the Purple Heart along with many other metals and awards, his experience during this time in his life was rarely, if ever talked about but the leg brace that he had to put on everyday was evidence that he had been though something most of us could never understand. Plaintiffs Nemesio Santos and Autumn Tharpe have commenced an action in the Supreme Court of Dutchess County (Index No. 2021-54028) to determine claims under RPAPL Article 15 to a .12-acre service road adjacent to 36 Evergreen Avenue, Poughkeepsie, New York (SBL: 6160-01-167836). Plaintiffs seek to establish that they are the sole owners of the title to the stated real property in fee simple absolute, and to forever bar the Defendants, their heirs, successors and/or assigns or any persons claiming any interest in the stated real property by, through or under such Defendants to the stated real property more fully described in the complaint of this action, and that full possession of the stated real property be exclusively granted to the Plaintiff, and for such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper. Any such heirs or other interested parties are required to file responsive pleadings on or before 1/21/2022. Upon your failure to appear, judgment will be taken against you by default and bar any right, title or interest you may have or had in and to a portion of the property described in the complaint.
