In the tight race for Dutchess County Comptroller, Democrat challenger Dan Aymar-Blair has declared victory and incumbent Republican Gregg Pulver has conceded.

A press release from the Dutchess County Democratic Party on Friday, Nov. 15, stated, "Dan Aymar-Blair won the Dutchess County Comptroller special election following the counting of absentee and affidavit ballots this week. Unofficial results provided by the Dutchess County Board of Elections place Aymar-Blair ahead of his opponent Gregg Pulver by 931 votes. According to updated unofficial results from the Dutchess County Board of Elections after counting affidavit and absentee ballots, Aymar-Blair has 72,624 votes and Pulver has 71,693 votes."

In an email to the Southern Dutchess News Group on Monday, Pulver said, "I am conceding. (There will be) no manual recount because (the) margin is above (the) threshold."

County Democratic Elections Commissioner Hannah Black told the Albany Times Union on Friday afternoon that Aymar-Blair led Pulver by more than 900 votes - a margin she said Pulver would not be able to overcome given the number of outstanding ballots. She also noted that the apparent gap is large enough not to trigger an automatic recount, which state Election Law mandates if the margin is 0.5% or less.

In results from election night (Nov. 5) Pulver held a lead of 69,581 to 69,106 for Aymar-Blair.

In declaring victory on Friday, Aymar-Blair said, "I am humbled and honored by the trust Dutchess County residents have placed in me. This victory affirms that taxpayers want a watchdog who will make sure the county's budget is working for them. The people of Dutchess County want a Comptroller committed to transparency, accountability, and serving the public interest. I look forward to bringing independent oversight and a fresh perspective to the office, ensuring every dollar is used wisely and in service of the community."

A groundbreaking ceremony was held at the future flagpole at Rotary Park in East Fishkill recently. The park is located off Route 82, near the Acme and Chase Bank.

The location is in the center of Hopewell Junction, said Patrick Manning, "and it is indicative of the transformation of Hopewell Junction." Manning is the economic developer for the Town of East Fishkill. He said the goal is to have the hamlet continue to have more walkability, shopability and local businesses.

In fact, it was a local business owner in Hopewell Junction that mentioned the idea of having a flag in the center of the hamlet.

Christine Bellizzi, owner of Bouquets by Christine, mentioned the idea, less than a year ago, explained Manning.

Town of East Fishkill Supervisor Nicholas D'Alessandro said the flag and park are "going to be wonderful."

"It shows what a tremendous community we have here," said D'Alessandro.

During the remarks he made at the ceremony, the supervisor said, "When Patrick told me about it (the flag) I couldn't have been happier." He stated, "When people drive by here and finally see that 80-foot tall flagpole and flag here ... it means freedom, unity, service to our country." D'Alessandro added: "We want to try and help these business owners come and invest in these facilities."

Spanish-American War Veteran Scofield recognized in Fishkill

A new plaque was unveiled during the annual ceremony held in recognition of Veterans Day in the Town of Fishkill on Nov. 11. The plaque is in honor of a late Fishkill resident, Sidney A. Scofield. Scofield was a private during the Spanish-American War.

The plaque reads: "Sidney A. Scofield killed in action July 1, 1898."

The plaque goes on to explain that Scofield was with Company K 71st Infantry. He was a member of the Rough Riders under Theodore Roosevelt, who became the 26th president of the United States.

"He (Scofield) enlisted in May of 1898 and within six weeks he was lost. He was laid to rest in Fishkill Rural Cemetery," explains the inscription on the plaque.

Aymar-Blair declares victory in Comptroller race; Pulver concedes

Pulver released the following statement late Monday afternoon.

"I want to thank all those who supported our campaign over the last 10 months. This was an absurdly close race and it's clear that the work our office has done bringing true fiscal stewardship to the County was a strong message. I'm proud that our focus on eliminating wasteful spending and increasing our community outreach to help our neighbors resonated with the taxpayers of Dutchess County. Though we didn't win, our campaign over-performed the presidential ballot by a significant amount.

"We were out spent more than 2 to 1 and my opponent raised the most money by a comptroller candidate in county history. That proved to be just too much to overcome.

"I barnstormed across Dutchess County this year meeting so many neighbors, and I am thankful for the 71,000+ voters that put their trust in me. I have no regrets and I'm proud of everything my office accomplished this year. I hope to continue serving my neighbors in Dutchess County for years to come."

WF announces: 'no longer overnight' police coverage, but 'alternative support in place'

Village Board will monitor situation and make any 'necessary adjustments'

By Kristine Coulter

Village of Wappingers Falls officials posted to social media on Nov. 13, in an announcement titled "Village Announces Change in Police Department Operating Hours," that as of 11:59 p.m. on Nov. 15 the operational hours of the Village of Wappingers Falls Police Department "will shift to 8:00 a.m. to midnight, seven days a week."

"This means there will no longer be overnight coverage by our Village Police, but alternative support will be in place," read the announcement.

The Village, it stated, "will continue to have exemplary police protection during the hours when our department is closed, thanks to the strong collaboration with neighboring agencies."

Lori Jiava, treasurer for the Village of Wappingers Falls, stated, "The people that approve payroll are Kevin (Huber, mayor of Village of Wappingers Falls) and I, and the mayor is responsible dollar for dollar."

Huber remarked, I have exhausted every avenue possible to try to continue working part-time officers over the 1040 allowable hours and has been met with dead ends. I have called senators, assemblymen, County legislators, and the county executives I have met with the commissioner of human resources and his deputy in my office. I have advocated more for this issue than other things in my life. We have been dealing with this issue for more than two decades and now accountability has called us to the forefront. I will continue to strive for compliance with civil service while making every resident my priority."

He added: "I love my Village and would do anything for it. As a firefighter, I will go into a burning home to save someone's family, but I cannot allow our non-compliance to jeopardize my family's home as I would be personally responsible for the coverage. The audit is coming and I have been stressing that we need to be compliant for more than seven months. The board has made it its mission to protect all the residents to the best of its ability by recruiting and retaining officers to staff appropriately."

Commissioner Dave Fisher stated via email, "The Village Board has made the decision to temporarily suspend the mid-night tour hours (12 a.m.-8 a.m.). As the Police Commissioner, my priority remains ensuring that public safety is maintained at all times. We are working closely with the Board to implement the necessary adjustments, and the department will continue to serve the community to the best of our ability during this transition."

Fisher added: "I have full confidence in the professionalism of our officers and staff to address any challenges that arise, and we remain committed to serving and protecting the Village of Wappingers Falls."

The decision regarding the overnight shift was made during the Village Board meeting on Nov. 13, said Jiava, and it was unanimous from the board members who were present (5 of the 7 members were present, she said).

"This was done after an exhausted several months," said Jiava. She also remarked, "It has nothing to do with money at this point. It has to do with being in compliance with Civil Service."

"My job description is to make sure Civil Service regulations are being complied with. My job is to make sure the Board and Mayor are completely informed at all times. This has been an ongoing issue and Civil Service keeps reminding us gently," said Jiava, who then added, "We need to make sure we attain and retain officers in the best way during a national [police recruitment] crisis."

Procedures were put in place in September by former Wappingers Falls Police Commissioner Carl Calabrese, according to Jiava, regarding ongoing issues. Commissioner Fisher was appointed in October, she said.

New York State Police regularly patrol the region, it was stated and is "less than a quarter of a mile outside the Village."

The Dutchess County Sheriff's Office holds jurisdiction across the county, reads the announcement, which "ensur[es] that support is available and needed."

"For any emergencies during overnight hours, residents may dial 911. Calls to our Village Police Department during these hours will be forwarded directly to the New York State Police for an immediate response," it was stated.

The original announcement also contained the neighboring Town of Poughkeepsie Police Department, but a subsequent one did not mention the Poughkeepsie police.

Trooper Aaron J. Hicks, public information officer for NYS Police, told Southern Dutchess News NYS Police "cannot comment on the operational decisions of outside agencies,"

Hicks added: "NYS Police will continue to work with our partnering agencies in Dutchess County to render aid, pursue criminal investigations, arrest criminals, protect citizens, and their property from harm as we have always done."

Asked about the number of troopers that would be patrolling at that time, Hicks replied, "For officer safety reasons we never disclose the number of patrols at any one time."

"The decision to reallocate our available staff to serve during peak times of the day and evening is a carefully considered approach to ensure that our community is supported when it needs it most. This reallocation reflects our commitment to maintaining the best possible level of service to the Village residents," stated the announcement.

The Wappingers PBA, Town of Poughkeepsie Supervisor Rebecca Edwards and the Sheriff's Office did not immediately respond to an inquiry for comment.

Fisher noted, "To enhance our commitment to the safety and well-being of our community, we are actively seeking NYS certified police officers to join our department. Interested candidates seeking a part-time position can apply directly at the Wappingers Falls Police Department."

Calling these "challenging times," it was stated that the Village Board "will continue to monitor and evaluate the situation closely and may make adjustments to police department operating hours as the circumstances warrant."

Spanish-American War Veteran honored in Fishkill

An email from Town officials gave thanks to the Town of Fishkill Police Cadet Color Guard for their participation.

The email also noted, "The plaque contains the unaltered photograph showing the panoramic view of the Rough Riders including the African American soldiers on the outer edges." It is stated on the plaque that the photo is of Roosevelt when he was a Colonel and members of the Rough Riders at the top of the hill that they captured during the Battle of San Juan Hill, on Kettle Hill in the Summer of 1898. In the photo, with Roosevelt are members of the 1st Volunteer Cavalry and 10th US Cavalry.

The engraving on the plaque reads: "The residents of this great nation and of The Town of Fishkill will never forget [Scofield's] bravery and sacrifice for our country."

A ceremony for Veterans Day was held on Nov. 11 in the Town of Fishkill. Late Fishkill resident and Spanish-American War Veteran Sidney A. Scofield was recognized with a plaque.

Fishkill has opportunity to protect tenants with Good Cause Eviction Law

To the Editor:

Last week's election made it clear voters in the area are concerned about the economy, including affordable housing.

Here in Fishkill, the town has an opportunity to protect tenants by passing Good Cause Eviction, a common-sense law that other Hudson Valley towns recently adopted. The Town Board is having a public hearing on November 20th about its proposed Good Cause law.

Good Cause protects tenants from unreasonable rent hikes and retaliatory or discriminatory evictions. Currently, when a lease expires for most Fishkill tenants, the landlord can choose not to renew it for any reason and raise the rent as high as they want. This leads to landlords evicting tenants as retaliation for raising concerns about living conditions – and skyrocketing rents.

Landlords who treat their tenants fairly have nothing to fear from Good Cause. The bill does not protect tenants who don't pay, violate their lease terms, damage property, or create a nuisance. And small landlords who live in the same building as their tenants are exempt.

Forty-seven percent of Fishkill renters are rent-burdened meaning they pay more than 30% income to rent (analysis of the US Census, American Community Survey 5-year estimates 2022). This census data was analyzed by staff at Housing Justice for All, a statewide organization that advocates on behalf of tenants. Many residents—especially seniors on fixed incomes—have a tough time keeping up with rent hikes and could be vulnerable to evictions over time.

Recognizing this growing challenge, Beacon, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Kingston, and New Paltz have all passed strong versions of the law—most importantly by defining a small landlord as the owner of 1 unit. (Setting the definition higher unnecessarily excludes vulnerable tenants and makes it much harder for covered tenants to enforce.)

As a local homeowner and taxpayer, I hope the Town Board will follow their lead and cover as many tenants as possible. Keeping Fishkill families in their homes and our neighborhoods stable and safe would be a much-needed gift to the town this holiday season.

Parisi: Beacon man pleads guilty to attempted assault and narcotics charges

Dutchess County District Attorney Anthony Parisi announced that Rakim Paulin, of Beacon, plead guilty on November 13th in Dutchess County Court to the felony charge of Attempted Assault in the First Degree, a Class C Violent Felony, in violation of Penal Law Sections 110.00 and 120.10, subdivision (1) and on a separate docket plead guilty to Criminal Possession of a Controlled Substance in the Third Degree, a Class B Felony, in violation of Penal Law Section 220.16, subdivision (12).

District Attorney Anthony Parisi said, "This conviction is not just a verdict on the actions of one individual; it is a reflection of our commitment to protecting the safety and well-being of our community. The defendant's involvement in both a violent assault and the illegal drug trade shows a clear disregard for the law and the lives of others. Our office will continue to hold those accountable who choose to endanger others and ensure that justice is served to the fullest extent of the law."

The assault incident occurred on August 20, at Pershing Avenue and Maple Street, in the City of Poughkeepsie. The defendant attempted to intentionally cause serious physical injury to another person by striking the person with his vehicle at approximately 46 miles per hour. The impact sent the victim into the air, and he landed on the hood of the car. The Defendant did then exit the vehicle and repeated strike the victim while he was on the ground. This case was investigated by the City of Poughkeepsie Police Department. The narcotics incident occurred on July 31, at the Mobile Gas Station at 349 Route 82 in the Town of Wappinger. The defendant admitted to possessing one or more preparations, compounds, mixtures and substances containing a narcotic drug, cocaine and /or fentanyl, and these narcotics were an aggregate weight of one-half ounce or more. This case was the result of an ongoing investigation by the District Attorney's Drug Task Force.

The assault case was prosecuted by Unit Chief Scott Johnson, the narcotics case was prosecuted by Senior Assistant District Attorney Heather Ryan. Judge Edward T. McLoughlin presided over the case and adjourned the sentencing to Jan. 22, 2025.

The charges against the defendants are merely allegations, and the defendants are presumed innocent until and unless they are proven guilty.

Dutchess County to launch Real-Time Crime Center

Dutchess County Executive Sue Serino, District Attorney Anthony Parisi and Sheriff Kirk Imperati have announced the creation of a new Real-Time Crime Center (RTCC) to be located at the Dutchess County Law Enforcement Center in Poughkeepsie. The RTCC will serve as a hub for law enforcement to monitor video feeds and other technology to respond to evolving and active crime situations quickly and efficiently. In a unanimous vote earlier this week, the Dutchess County Legislature approved $200,000 to launch the RTCC by the end of this year.

District Attorney Parisi said, "A Real-Time Crime Center is not just an investment in technology; it's an investment in the safety and security of our community. By leveraging real-time data, we're not just reacting to crimes, but proactively working to prevent them. Law enforcement will be able to utilize data, surveillance technology and predictive analytics to respond quicker to crimes, investigate crimes more thoroughly and identify patterns to prevent future crimes. This center will be the nerve center of our commitment to a safer, smarter, and more responsive justice system."

County Executive Sue Serino said, "The RTCC will be a true game-changer for speed of response and police safety. This cutting-edge initiative leverages technology for faster, more effective law enforcement response to protect our communities. We thank District Attorney Parisi for his leadership in moving this initiative forward and we are proud to support this important collaboration of community and law enforcement."

Real-Time Crime Centers nationwide merge data from live video, cameras, license plate readers, body cameras worn by law enforcement, audio detection and other tools into a single cloud-based operational view to provide enhanced visibility and unified situational awareness. This unified view helps ensure appropriate law enforcement can respond more swiftly to incidents, in some cases potentially preventing crimes before they escalate. RTCCs promote better coordination among law enforcement agencies, emergency services and community organizations to ensure information is shared and resources are allocated effectively, where they are needed most.

The RTCC will be staffed by the Dutchess County Sheriff's Office Special Operation Bureau, along with a Crime Analyst from the District Attorney's Office. Other area law enforcement agencies, including the New York State Police, will also have personnel at the RTCC.

Sheriff Kirk Imperati said, "Having a Real Time Crime Center is a force multiplier – giving us the ability to see, in real-time, what is going on to be able dispatch the right resources immediately and provide responding officers with visual support. As technology continues to advance and becomes more widespread through the community, the RTCC enables us to pull all of that information together, putting it to work to make our community safer. I appreciate the collaboration of District Attorney Parisi and County Executive Serino, as well as the support from the entire County Legislature, in making the RTCC possible."

Serino has directed the initial $200,000 to launch the RTCC be allocated from the Community Benefit Fund (CBF). The CBF was established by Serino as a set-aside of fund balance following the drawdown of American Rescue Plan funding. This funding is intended for one-time projects that have substantial community benefit and lasting positive impact. This initial funding will cover radio communications equipment, computer hardware, new cameras for high crime areas, as well as equipment to integrate existing municipal and community cameras throughout Dutchess County, as well as subscription costs for the intelligence systems.

"The Real-Time Crime Center will also play a critical role in ensuring the security of our County employees as they come and go from County facilities," said County Executive Serino. "This initial funding will provide for enhanced video surveillance of parking areas and rapid law enforcement deployment, adding a layer of protection for those who serve our community every day."

Going forward, District Attorney Parisi has secured $1.2 million in federal funding through the Department of Justice's Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS) grant to cover reoccurring costs for the operation of the RTCC over the next two years and will continue to pursue grant funding sources for future years.

District Attorney Parisi concluded, "The creation of a Real-Time Crime Center is a crucial step in modernizing our criminal justice system. The unanimous bi-partisan support from our legislature this week shows their unwavering commitment to the public safety of Dutchess County. I am thankful for the continued support ensuring the implementation of a more informed, data-driven approach to criminal justice."

OP-ED

Can math fix your finances?

The following op-ed expresses the views of the writer alone and does not necessarily reflect the views of the Southern Dutchess News management or staff.

By Irvin Miller, Ph.D.

To get the best advice on how to live within your means, one should listen to someone like Suze Orman. As a mathematician, I concur with much that she says. If one understands the mathematics behind financial decisions, one can enjoy their life immensely more.

The first rule is that your expenditures should be less than your income. If you understand the rules of probability and realize that the provider of the gambling services is going to make a lot of money off your losses, you would not be so anxious to let this be a big expenditure. So, stop buying lottery tickets, going to casinos, and any other form of gambling. The providers of these services are masters at advertising a product that may only live up to its promises for others than you.

Next, consider your health. Forget about alcohol, coffee, drugs, and smoking. While these make you feel good, they can make a big dent in your financial health. But, that may not matter, [if you are] miserable and won't live long enough to feel the full discomfort.

And finally, the big one: Do not borrow money and do not allow there to be a balance on your credit cards. You usually borrow money so that you can have something for today rather than waiting to have it tomorrow. Often you can be in for big disappointments. You could go to a State College or you can go to a private university, but the debt you run up may be impossible to pay off because you do not earn sufficient money.

Usury used to be considered an interest rate above 12%. Because college loans are deferred, the interest rates are higher than paying the loan off as soon as you get it.

Credit cards can have interest rates as high as 100%. If you do not pay off a $45 purchase, you can be charged $45 penalty – which, in effect, is a 100% interest rate. Yet, government watch dog services do not recognize it as an interest rate.

Buying a home can be one of your riskiest adventures. Lenders have learned that if they can force a borrower to default on a loan with rising house costs, the lender can make a large amount of money on your misery. Balloon mortgages caused lots of people to lose their homes and equity in the beginning of this century.

People can be creative in living within their means. Young college graduates share apartments with friends or live with their parents. If you are retired and are an empty nester, you can rent out your children's rooms. If you find someone with whom you are compatible, one could sell their home and live in someone else's home, where the savings on taxes, maintenance and insurance are halved. With reverse mortgages you still have to pay taxes, maintenance, and insurance.

While you may not be so savvy on your finances, government officials can be worse. The government has an ever-growing debt that eventually has to be settled by your grandchildren.

If you were to increase taxes to pay off the national debt, would you charge the poor people or the wealthy more taxes? Cutting taxes sounds good, but it just makes the debt greater. It seems that since the wealthy have more to offer, you would want to increase their taxes, not cut them.

Other than Suze Orman, who can you trust? Banks used to have the word 'Trust' in their name. Most recently, one large bank was fined three billion dollars for money laundering.

Maybe, you should have taken your math more seriously.

Groundbreaking for 80-foot flagpole in East Fishkill motto for the Town of East Fishkill is 'East Fishkill ... it's a great place to live.' "We love our veterans, we love our first responders, and we love our country," said Franco. He mentioned Veterans Park that is proposed for across the street from the East Fishkill Town Hall, on Route 376. He said the future park is just under 4 acres and will have a Memorial Garden, Memorial Plaza, Gold Star Plaza, water features, and a space for flag burning ceremonies. Earlier this year, he said, the clearing of trees began.

Manny Bacon American Legion Post 1758 Commander James Reynolds noted that Air Force Veteran Johnny Cash released a song "Ragged Old Flag" in 1974. "The lyrics were powerful," said Reynolds. Some of the lyrics include:

"He said, 'I don't like to brag, but we're kinda proud of that ragged old flag And the government for which she stands

Has scandalized throughout out the land

And she's getting thread bare, and she's wearin' thin

But she's in good shape, for the shape she's in

Cause she's been through the fire before

And I believe she can take a whole lot more."

The flag, said Reynolds, "not only symbolizes what our country means but what it can be." He added: "When tested - America always passes."

Virgil Capollari, on behalf of Assemblyman Anil Beephan Jr., who was previously on the East Fishkill Town Board, said, "Seeing this [flag] on one side of the road and then the impending Veterans Park-this is how you do it."

Manning thanked the East Fishkill Highway Department for going "above and beyond" with the work for the future flagpole. He also thanked the town engineer Scott Bryant, the Town Board and the secretary to the supervisor, Gina Grippo.

The East Fishkill Memorial Bench will be placed in the area near the flagpole, it was stated.

The $30,000 needed has mostly been raised, said Manning. At the time of the ceremony, $2,850 was still needed.

Local jewelry store owner James Bellizzi, who is married to Christine Bellizzi, read "Old Glory."

A portion of it states: "My name is

Children can make free holiday projects during Verplanck Garden Club's annual craft workshop on Nov. 23

By Kristine Coulter

The Verplanck Garden Club's Children's Holiday Craft Workshop is set for Saturday, Nov. 23. The workshop will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The event will be held on the lower level of the Fishkill Town Hall, 807 Route 52 (look for the balloons). Organizers said there will be crafts, pictures with Santa and live entertainment.

"We have planned for 150 children to participate at each of the 6 craft stations, [to] have their picture taken with Santa and participate at the music station," said garden club member Kathy Juhasz. Juhasz and Sue Pulcare are co-chairs for the annual workshop event.

Children can make a sock snowman. There will also be stations where attendees can make a reindeer ornament, door hanger, and an evergreen arrangement in a holiday mug. Children can also color at the Coloring Sheets station. One can even make a do-it-at-home bird feeder.

Pulcare explained how the workshop began. "So, according to Bonnie Detweiler, a long time member and a past president, many years ago, when the Verplanck Garden Club met at Stony Kill Farm, the club members decorated the lower-level rooms for the holidays and baked for an open house. The mug arrangements were made by the children and that was the only craft that was made. When the club moved to the Fishkill Town Hall, it was decided to have a craft workshop for the children and hence the Children's Holiday Craft Workshop began," remarked Pulcare.

"We think the children like to do different crafts. The parents like that this family outing is fun and free and that what their children make is a keepsake for themselves, or for family members. I know I still display, at the holidays, homemade gifts from my children, grandchildren and family members," said Juhasz.

The club members, remarked Pulcare, "enjoy the camaraderie of doing the prep work; the smiles on the faces of the children and adults as the crafts are being created; the joy of seeing everyone having fun; and the satisfaction of creating happy memories."

The garden club also takes care of the pollinator garden at the Jean Van Pelt Park in the town of Fishkill and raised-

Reflection, Remembrance and Hope: All welcome at Overdose Awareness Memorial

If you've ever entered the Dutchess County Rail Trail, behind Gold's Gym in LaGrange, or exited there after a walk, run or bike ride, then you've likely seen the beautifully landscaped memorial with four pillars and a sitting wall surrounding it.

A bit closer, you'd notice the bricks leading up to it have names and dates or phrases like, "Reach out" and "Hope." Toward the center, you'd see padlocks attached to a chain link fence. On those locks are names, dates and even inscribed pictures of people – individuals who have lost their battle to addiction. In June 2022, the MARC Foundation, in partnership with the Mental Health America of Dutchess County (MHA - DC) and Gold's Gym Dutchess County, who generously donated the land for this purpose, cut the ribbon on what is Dutchess County's only Overdose Awareness Memorial. Since then, it's become a sanctuary and place of reflection and hope for many.

"We created this memorial so that people have a place to honor those they've loved and lost, but also to bring awareness to the silent cause of struggle for many," said Kristin Fountain, president of the MARC Foundation board. "There's no cost to visit and everyone is welcome. The public is invited to place a lock on the fence or, if they'd like to remember their loved one and help us raise funds and awareness, they can purchase a customized brick to be installed at the entrance of the memorial. The bricks can have names, dates or even simply share a message of hope or support for someone who is living in recovery."

Another key feature of the Overdose Awareness Memorial is the kiosk located just outside of the memorial, which holds a host of resources and information for anyone seeking support, whether it's the individual themselves or a family member or friend looking for connections within the community. Inside the kiosk is a scannable QR code with information on how to purchase a brick or to donate funds to help with the upkeep of the memorial. The holidays can be a difficult time for anyone who has lost a loved one. The Overdose Memorial welcomes you to share and cherish their memory through an engraved brick or a personalized padlock.

"Resources include information on suicide prevention, mental health support, 12-step groups, veteran's services, addiction and recovery help lines and more," said Andrew O'Grady, CEO of MHA - DC. "The important thing is that help is available and no one needs to struggle alone."

To learn more about the Overdose Awareness Memorial, or upcoming events, resources and news, head to marcfoundation.org or follow the MARC Foundation on Facebook.

The mission of the MARC Foundation is to generate financial support to provide prevention and residential treatment for individuals with a substance use disorder. The Foundation accomplishes this mission by giving grants to expand and improve sober housing, which creates a safe and secure environment for people in recovery, and by supporting organizations that prevent or treat substance use disorders.

In addition to helping to create the Overdose Awareness Memorial, the MARC Foundation supports the annual Overdose Awareness Day and provides scholarships for recovering substance abusers who want to work as addiction counselors. It also creates transition funds for those moving from community residences to mainstream life, supports members of local Oxford Houses and improves local community residences.

In the over 30 years since this Foundation was founded, it has helped thousands of people who have become clean and sober, witnessing miraculous journeys of recovery from people who were often written off by their families, employers and, most importantly, by themselves as being beyond help. Sadly, countless others are still being caught in the grips of this devastating disease.

County to participate in statewide STOP-DWI Thanksgiving enforcement effort

Impaired driving crackdown runs Nov. 27th to Dec. 1st

Law-enforcement agencies throughout Dutchess County will participate in a special enforcement effort to crack down on impaired driving to coincide with the national Thanksgiving holiday. The statewide STOP-DWI High Visibility Enforcement Campaign effort starts on Wednesday, Nov. 27, and will end on Sunday, Dec. 1.

Various law-enforcement agencies will collaborate across the state and will be out in force in this coordinated effort to reduce the number of alcohol-related injuries and deaths during this period.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), more impaired driving crashes occur on Thanksgiving day than the day before or after the holiday. Of all driving collisions on Thanksgiving day, 31 percent are related to impaired driving. The NHTSA reported Thanksgiving car crash fatalities rose by 23 percent from 2019 to 2020, based on the most recent data available.

The STOP-DWI Thanksgiving High Visibility Engagement Campaign is one of many statewide initiatives promoted by STOP-DWI NY and the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee. The Statewide STOP-DWI High Visibility Engagement Campaign also targets Super Bowl weekend, St. Patrick's Day, Memorial Day, the 100 Days of Summer campaign in June through August, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Halloween and the winter holiday season.

STOP-DWI New York urges residents to download its mobile app, "Have a Plan," at <https://stopdwi.org/mobileapp/>.

‘Trees for Troops’ to load record 900 trees on Nov. 30

By Curtis Schmidt

The local “Trees for Troops” effort just keeps growing – and this year Volunteer Coordinator Jeff Cady says a new record of approximately 900 trees will be sent to military families around the globe.

That’s a huge jump over the 500 trees that were loaded on FedEx tractor trailer trucks last year. 2024 marks the 13th year for local volunteers doing their part in the national effort.

“Trees for Troops” provides free, farm-grown Christmas Trees to U.S. armed forces members in all branches of the military and their families through donations, sponsorships, grants and the work of many volunteers. November is the busy month when farmer Tom Hahn, the local “Trees for Troops” founder, and Cady gather volunteers together, raise funds and load trees for shipment.

This year’s loading date is set for Saturday, Nov. 30, at 9 a.m., at Hahn Farm, 1697 Salt Point Turnpike. Everyone is invited to come out and help in the effort.

This year’s major donor for the second consecutive year is Williams Lumber & Home Centers, who will be donating 150 trees.

“The Williams family has really come through for us and we can’t say enough to thank them for coming on board to help out. They have become a major sponsor,” said Cady.

He added that the Salt Point Fire Company has collected donations to cover 600 trees this year.

“We had two coin drops this year and have received many other donations,” said Cady. “Tom Hahn usually gets donations to cover between 125 and 150 trees. So yes, this year will be the biggest year to date for the number of trees collected.”

Volunteers will be loading the trees on three tractor trailer trucks provided by FedEx.

“We are again very happy with all of the support we have gotten from the fire companies around the county and from Uncle Mike with WRWD Radio,” said Cady.

A full list of donors will be printed in the Northern and Southern Dutchess News in early December.

Hundreds attend 2024 Hudson Valley 'Go Red for Women' Luncheon

Attendees at the annual Go Red for Women Luncheon in Poughkeepsie on Nov. 14.

Two hundred women – and some men – gathered on Nov. 14 to fight the No. 1 killer of women, heart disease, at the 2024 Hudson Valley Go Red for Women Luncheon at the Double Tree by Hilton in Poughkeepsie.

The American Heart Association, a global force for longer, healthier lives, created the Go Red for Women campaign 20 years ago to save women's lives. Since 2004, the Association has funded more research about women's health, and offered programs to raise awareness about cardiovascular disease in women.

"Today, we celebrated what the Go Red for Women movement has achieved in our community, and we look to the future and what we can continue to accomplish," said Susan Browning, chair of the 2024 Hudson Valley Go Red for Women Luncheon, president of Vassar Brothers Medical Center and western regional president of Nuvance Health. "We were all united by a shared commitment to ending heart disease and stroke in women, and I know we made a difference in the work of the Go Red for Women movement."

Jodi Hammell of Poughkeepsie shared her story of surviving a stroke a little more than a year ago.

"Everyone tells me I am a miracle,"

Women of Impact were recognized during the annual luncheon.

Hammell said. "Many days, I feel like a miracle in progress. I know that the research of the American Heart Association helped my doctors save my life, and I was glad to give back today."

The Luncheon included a silent auction, Hands-Only CPR demonstrations, and a panel of expert physicians from Nuvance Health who shared information about the ways women can care for themselves through the ages and stages of their lives.

County awards second round of Youth Wellness grants

Dutchess County Executive Sue Serino has announced grants totaling $47,761 which have been awarded through the latest round of the County's 2024 Youth Wellness Supports Microgrants program. These grants will support four local organizations that build strong well-being and deter young people from developing substance use issues and other destructive behaviors, setting them up for successful, healthy futures as adults.

Serino said, "Every child deserves a promising future. In Dutchess County, we're lucky to have numerous community partners who help guide them toward success. These grants will support crucial programs that encourage positive behaviors in our kids, keeping them away from risky activities that might derail their success. We're proud to partner with these organizations, as we all work together to create a bright future for Dutchess County."

Projects funded through the 2024 Youth Wellness Supports Microgrants program include:

Red Hook Public Library, Red Hook, $5,000 – Ten librarians throughout Dutchess County will be trained on Youth Mental Health First Aid, with each developing their own action plan for youth mental health crisis intervention.

Millbrook Library, Millbrook, $5,000 – Expand the library's children's collection by adding books focused on mental health and substance use prevention, as well as support a 6-month Kids Yoga Series consisting of 24 classes to teach mindfulness and stress-relief techniques and help children develop healthy coping skills, foster mental well-being and reinforce substance use prevention strategies from an early age.

Mental Health America of Dutchess County, Poughkeepsie, $19,000 – Design a custom landscape design of the Ellen's Place outdoor classroom to include activity stations and serve as a creative space allowing exploration of a child's imagination, encouraging impulse control and reduced aggression.

James's Warriors, East Fishkill, $18,761 – Purchase items for coping kits, given to schools following the organization's school-based presentations and awareness events regarding mental health and suicide prevention, changing the way mental health is perceived with the aim of reducing the stigma surrounding it and preventing suicide.

Announced in July, the Youth Wellness Supports Microgrants program seeks proposals from nonprofit organizations, municipalities and grassroots organizations that offer specific programs benefiting youth, with evidence-based wellness activities that help reduce the risk of substance use for children and young adults under age 25.

The 2024 Youth Wellness Support Microgrant Program focuses on several key areas targeting preventing young people from developing substance use disorders and safeguarding their mental wellness, including Prevention, Public Awareness Activities and Social Media Awareness and Safe Use.

Grant proposals continue to be accepted and should reflect one or more of these focus areas. Creative ideas that have demonstrated success are encouraged. Grant applications can be submitted online via Dutchess County's online grant portal (<https://www.grantinterface.com/Home/Logon?urlkey=dc>) and will be accepted on a rolling basis while funds are available.

Grant awards can range from $5,000 to $19,000 per recipient. The Youth Wellness Support Microgrant program is funded with $200,000 of opioid settlement funds obtained as a result of litigation against the pharmaceutical industry; to date, $95,060 has been awarded through the program.

Youth Wellness Support Microgrant Program instructions and guidance are available online via <https://www.dutchessny.gov/>; applicants must ensure compliance with Dutchess County's Procurement Policies and Procedures.

Program and application process, please contact Sandi Pierson at spierson@dutchessny.gov.

Germania's Christkindlmarkts set November 22-23

By Curtis Schmidt

Germania of Poughkeepsie will host its annual Christkindlmarkts on Nov. 22 and 23 in a heated tent and hall on the grounds at 37 Old DeGarmo Road. Hours are 4-9 p.m. on Friday and 10 a.m. – 6 p.m. on Saturday.

The history of Christkindlmarkts or "Christ Child Markets" can be traced back to the Middle Ages in Saxony, Germany.

Sylvia Reuter, president of Germania of Poughkeepsie, said the local organization held its first Christkindlmarkt in 2008 with a handful of vendors selling mostly handcrafted goods from knitted blankets, hats, and scarves to amber and silver jewelry.

Grete Licis, a lifetime Germania member, started the market and it has grown over the years. This year, over 30 vendors will be on hand, selling handmade wooden crafts, pottery, jewelry, homemade fudge and candies, wine, dog treats and shirts, soaps, lotions, minerals and fossils, and much more.

Boy Scouts will be selling Christmas wreaths, and for the second year in a row, Crazy Over Art on Tour will be participating. It is nonprofit that encourages and teaches art to local communities with limited access to the arts.

Inside the Germania Hall, visitors will find the Germania Baked Goods Market where you can purchase homemade German cookies, stollen, apple strudel, bienenstich, gingerbread cake and much more.

Reuter said most of these treats are made in house by Germania volunteers.

"Take a break from shopping and you can enjoy German food, pastries, and a mug of hot glühwein (German mulled wine), perfect to warm you up on a crisp fall day," she said.

Adding to the flavor of the event, the German Language Class, led by Frau Helga Nowak-Razey, will be singing Christmas carols in German and in English.

Parking and admission are free.

French Toast Bread Pudding

Suitable for breakfast, brunch or dessert, baking this treat could become a new holiday tradition.

Since the holiday season really starts with Thanksgiving, it seems a good time to start sharing recipes and thoughts on how to make it extra special. We all have our time-honored dishes that have become favorite traditions, but it never hurts to add something new. Besides, with over a month of merry making to look forward to, can there ever be too many recipes?

The ways we celebrate our holidays are as varied as we are. Many cultures, generations and family recipes come together to inform what we do and how we do it. I love holiday traditions and the meaning they hold; and keeping them alive through handing them down is a beautiful thing. Some things are sacred and never questioned or deviated from, like our Thanksgiving meal. It's a lovely marriage of what my grandparents did and probably goes back even further than that. The menu is the same every year, recipes so precious to my family that it just wouldn't be Thanksgiving without them.

But Thanksgiving isn't the only holiday coming up and, let's face it, there's a lot to do leading up to the New Year. That means there's plenty of time to add something new to our traditions. Of course, there's lots of preparation, and so things can get busier than usual, hectic even. It's important, then, not to lose sight of what really matters – the people we love – and what better way to do that than cook up something special?

I think I have just the thing, something warm and wonderful, comforting and inviting and impressive enough for company. Whether you're entertaining, hosting or just bringing joy to your family, this recipe is one I hope you'll add to your holiday lineup. And it's a gift that keeps on giving! It's perfect for breakfast, brunch or dessert, can be customized and made ahead of time so you can have it ready when things get a little crazy.

I'm pretty sure I wouldn't enjoy life as much without bread. ANY kind of bread, sweet or savory, soft or chewy, makes my heart happy. I'll eat it plain or with butter, olive oil, peanut butter, honey or jam, toasted or fresh, warm from the oven or straight out of the package. No wonder, then, that I love bread pudding. I usually prefer and make savory bread puddings; but the thought of combining it with another favorite, French toast, seemed too tempting not to try. So I did just that and came up with something heavenly and, I think, perfect for this time of year.

As with any French toast or bread pudding, it's best to start with day-old, slightly stale bread. Brioche, baguette, Italian or challah breads all work great but, when fresh, any will be soggy. If you only have a fresh loaf, leave it out of its package for a while (ideally overnight) before using or cut into 1-inch-thick slices or cubes and stick in a warm oven for a bit. You don't want to toast it, just dry it out. Crustier breads are my favorite since they add a crispy contrast to the otherwise chewy, custardy texture, so I used baguette for this. One standard loaf was just enough to fill the baking dish in a not-too-thick layer, so it baked up crisp and chewy with the perfect amount of custard creaminess and French toast flavor in every bite.

What makes it shout French toast is the cinnamon. The egg-milk batter usually used to drench the bread before pan frying is the base for the custard with a few adjustments.

A plate of French Toast Pudding. -Photos by Vicki Frank Day

A slightly stale loaf, cut into cubes, gives a desirable texture to bread pudding.

The addition of a simple caramel made with brown sugar and used as a thin bottom layer adds not only rich sweetness but also a pleasant chewy texture, and a topping of cinnamon streusel helps crisp up the top and makes the kitchen smell amazing as it bakes.

Presentation had me in a bit of a quandary. I once had a similar dish at a restaurant which was served in a small cast iron skillet, but for a crowd that wouldn't work so well. I went with a metal baking dish so I could plate individual squares, but you could make individual servings by using ramekins or a muffin tin instead. You just need to alter the baking time to about 40 minutes, checking after 30 to make sure they don't burn. Baking time will vary slightly no matter what dish you use, depending on its size, amount and type of bread and your personal preference. What you want is a crisp top with a slight chewiness and a creamy custard interior. The longer you soak the bread, the more custardy and crisp it will be. The contrast of the two is a beautiful thing!

Once it's baked you can further customize it with toppings. Here you have options, my friends, and I recommend trying them all for different occasions. There's the classic maple syrup, but I went with a warm blackberry sauce and whipped cream. You can swap out the blackberry preserves with any kind you prefer. Because you serve it warm from the oven, it all melts deliciously together. If serving as dessert, you could top it with vanilla ice cream, because over the top is just right for the holidays. Feel free to add a tablespoon of Grand Marnier or orange juice to the batter for that something extra. Adding pecans or walnuts to the topping or, better yet, pralines, would be great too. Fresh fruit is another option, topped with crême anglaise or whipped cream. I've included a simple berry sauce to get you started.

French Toast Bread Pudding with Warm Berry Sauce

You can certainly bake this right after you assemble it, but I highly recommend making it the night before. It makes it easier on you and allows the bread to soak up more of the custard for creamier, more luscious results. Crustier breads make a crisper topping, made even more so with cinnamon streusel. And don't forget the whipped cream!

Ingredients for Pudding

- 5 tablespoons butter (more for greasing the pan)
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
- 7 eggs
- 2 cups whole milk
- 1/2 cup heavy cream
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon pure vanilla extract
- 1 tablespoon Grand Marnier (optional)
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg (freshly grated is best)
- Pinch of salt
- 1 loaf day-old bread (brioche, Italian, baguette), cut into 1-inch cubes

Ingredients for Cinnamon Streusel Topping

- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup (1 stick/8 tablespoons) cold butter, cut in pieces

Ingredients for Blackberry Sauce

- 1 (12-16oz) jar blackberry jam or seedless preserves
- Water

Method for Pudding

Grease a 9x13 baking dish generously with butter. Set aside.

In a small saucepan, melt butter over medium heat. Add brown sugar and stir until melted and combined. As the sugar melts, the butter will at first pool a bit, but keep stirring. It will come together as it cooks into a caramel. It should take about 6 minutes. Remove from heat and pour into prepared baking dish to evenly coat the bottom.

In a large bowl, whisk the eggs. Add milk, cream, sugar, vanilla and Grand Marnier (if using), spices and salt and whisk to combine. The cinnamon may form little clumps, but that's fine. Add bread cubes and stir well to coat thoroughly. Let sit to absorb the batter (at least 30 minutes), stirring occasionally.

Transfer soaked bread to baking dish, spreading evenly to cover caramel. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Method for Cinnamon Streusel

In a small bowl, whisk together flour, brown sugar, cinnamon and salt. Add butter and use a pastry cutter or fork to incorporate butter until crumbly. If the butter warms up it may clump, but that's OK too. Transfer to a zip top bag and refrigerate until ready to use.

Method for Blackberry Sauce

In a small saucepan, heat preserves over medium heat, stirring constantly. It will thin as it warms. Add water, starting with 1 tablespoon but no more than 2, to thin it enough so it won't reset too firmly as it cools. I recommend doing this just before the pudding is done. It needs to be served warm. If making ahead, rewarm to make it pourable.

When it's time to bake the pudding, pre-heat oven to 350 degrees. (If it looks too dry, add a little more cream before baking). Sprinkle top of pudding evenly with cinnamon sugar streusel. Bake uncovered until puffed up, set and golden, 45-60 minutes (check after 45).

To serve

Cut into squares; plate and top with warm berry sauce and whipped cream. Serve immediately. Serves 10-12.

A note here: I recommend you eat this hot, or at least warm. If it isn't, the caramel on the bottom gets pretty hard. To reheat any left over, pop in the oven for 20 minutes or so.

Easy, impressive, festive, comforting and luscious AND can be made ahead? It's also versatile, being just as lovely for brunch as it is dessert. Sounds like the perfect thing to add to your holiday recipe box! Now you have it, so why not start making your holidays more special right away? Let's be thankful for all we have, add to our traditions and celebrate family and togetherness.

'Wendy & Peter Pan' ready to take flight at RCK

By Kristine Coulter

"Wendy & Peter Pan," by Ella Hickson adapted from the book by J.M. Barrie, will be taking flight at Roy C. Ketcham High School's Bove Theatre, 99 Myers Corners Road, in Wappingers Falls. Masque & Mime, the school's drama club, will hold performances on Nov. 22-24. The shows are scheduled for 7 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 22; 7 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 23 and 2 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 24.

Najah Muhammad is the director. "Working on this show has been such a thrilling process. The cast, crew, and my fellow advisors have constantly had tons of ideas on how to bring the world of Neverland to life, and there's been an abundance of creativity, positive energy, and collaboration throughout this process. I truly feel like the cast and crew [have] come together even more smoothly than on previous shows I've worked on, which is pretty special, and I think speaks to the beauty of Masque & Mime and its 60 years we are celebrating this season! I just can't stop thinking about all of the hard work that's gone into this production. I've especially enjoyed discussing some of the complex & relatable themes in this show with our incredible young people. There are moments in the show that make me laugh and some that make me cry, but all of them have left an indelible mark on me. I just can't wait for everyone to see the magic we've been working on," remarked Muhammad.

Haley Polidore, a senior at RCK, is the club's president. Haley portrays Tink.

"Performing is my favorite thing in the world. The feeling of being on stage is like nothing else; it feels like home. But I love the behind the scenes work because that's where we learn new things and get to explore our characters. The cast and crew collaborate closely to bring each production to life, and it's exciting to see everything come together. Najah Muhammad is such an amazing director, and working with her has been such an incredible experience," said Haley, who joined Masque & Mime in 2021.

"Since then, I've been part of the cast in several shows and helped with publicity. Now, as President, I'm grateful for the amazing friendships and experiences I've gained. It's been a great journey, and I'm excited to continue supporting this creative community," Haley remarked.

Masque & Mime, the drama club at Roy C. Ketcham High School, will take flight in "Wendy & Peter Pan," in the Bove Theatre at the high school from Nov. 22-24.

What does Haley look forward to most about this production?

"I'm excited to bring Tink to life in this production, unlike the Disney version, she gets to talk and show off her fierce personality! I'm also looking forward to the flying scenes, which will add a magical touch and bring the show to life. Plus, this being our 60th fall production at Masque & Mime makes it even more special and memorable," Haley replied.

Casey Muller, a senior, is the historian of Masque & Mime and a set crew chief.

"Each play at Ketcham has its own sparkle, and this production has been no different. "Wendy & Peter Pan" is a play that is filled with joy like fun, but still retains a dark tone for our older audiences watching. My favorite part about working on this play for the set crew is translating the fun into its build," said Casey. "Working with a couple slides found on the side of the road by our props advisor Ms. (Lindsay) Wasserman, hammocks, and tires, we've worked to make the set just as fun as its story. You'll see during the production that we have a pretty wide stage, and we didn't waste any of that. The best part as well is utilizing our existing sets to transform it into different scenes entirely. From the Darling home in London, the Home Under the Ground in Neverland, and of Captain Hook's infamous Jolly Roger, watching will immerse you completely into the world of Wendy and Peter Pan. I've also never flown anyone before, so being in control of showing the fairy dust magic is going to be quite cool!"

Casey explained, "Once a design gets in, our advisor Denny Evaul— to me it is always Mr. E. — works with us to get started on building a main set and then depending on the design we find ways to create moving set pieces for different scenes and locations."

Denny Evaul, set crew advisor (and whose wife Rosemary has offered tireless efforts to the school's shows for years), said about the performances, "I am looking forward, with trepidation, to the flying which won't arrive until a week or so before the show. We have never flown anyone before, and it will be professionally done. Two shows with flying is both exciting and scary ("Mary Poppins," the Spring show, will also have flying elements).

Why should people see "Wendy & Peter Pan?" Haley responded, "People should come to see the show because the entire cast and crew have put in so much hard work! The story is amazing, and there are so many cool and funny moments throughout the production—you'll just have to come and see it for yourself!"

Casey answered, "It's an entertaining way to support our community and students. The time and effort put into these productions is phenomenal and it's all for our audience. I also think for all the people who haven't seen a Ketcham production, it's quite easy to start with a story they think they're already familiar with. It is also our first production on the newly-dedicated Rosemary and Denny Evaul stage in light of our 60th anniversary this 2024-2025 season. Being the Historian really makes me treasure being able to be a part of the milestone year, and what has made Masque & Mime what it is these past 60 years is the people who show up."

'Food and Country'

A film that provides plenty of 'food for thought.'

Our broken food system. The food desert. Food insecurity. Empty calories. Ultra-processed. Factory farms. Skyrocketing prices. Price gouging. Monsanto. It seems like everybody has some kind of complaint about the food we eat. Never mind that America in the 21st century has the most abundant food supply the world has ever known.

Last Wednesday, a sold-out crowd packed the Upstate Films theater in Rhinebeck to watch "Food and Country," a new documentary put together by the author and restaurant critic Ruth Reichl, who traveled from her home in Stephenstown, N.Y. to watch the film with us. On the one hand, it was encouraging to see so many people at an actual movie theater. On the other hand, I was dreading yet another movie bashing the 7 percent of hard-working farmers who supply the rest of us with our daily bread.

But "Food and Country" was different. Conceived during the pandemic, when our food system actually was severely challenged, the film explores the connection, or disconnection, between the producers and the consumers. Reichl interviews farmers, and not the ones she refers to as "boutique farmers." She talks to large-scale farmers, and uncovers a disturbing trend that is threatening our food supply:

Angela Knuth grows corn, soybeans and wheat in Mead, Nebraska with husband Kerry and their two sons, who both have part-time, off-the-farm jobs. The farm struggles with debt, borrowing from the bank in the spring, hoping to pay it back after the harvest. The audience at Upstate let out an audible gasp at the sight of one of the farm's $500,000 tractors. Angela converted part of the farm to organic production, not out of some philosophical convictions, but in an attempt to make more money.

She's hoping that the 4th generation Knuth Farm will transition to the 5th.

Steve Stratford runs thousands of Angus on his cattle ranch in Pratt, Kansas. He paints a bleak picture of the future, as the beef industry consolidates. Small ranchers are at the mercy of the four big beef packers - Cargill, Tyson, JBS and National Beef. As the small ranches disappear, rural towns will empty out, youngsters will take jobs in the city and all our eggs, so to speak, will be in one basket.

That's exactly what happened to Bob Jones of The Chef's Garden in Huron, Ohio. He relied exclusively on sales to restaurants. When COVID shut the restaurants down, Bob sat by helplessly as acres of cauliflower rotted in the fields. He couldn't pay his 120 workers, and had no money to harvest and store the crops, or to package and send them to food banks. The system was truly broken, showing how vulnerable we are to a crisis. A poignant moment in the film - Bob broke down and cried. Then he pointed out that we need people to harvest crops, or we will import our food from overseas.

Karen Washington, a hometown hero, so to speak, runs Rise and Root Farm in Chester, N.Y. Her operation is large enough to "rise" above the "boutique" category, providing thousands of pounds of fresh produce and thousands of seedlings to food pantries and community gardens from New York City to Kingston. The farm, at the Chester Agricultural Center on the rich black dirt in Orange County, is a training ground for hundreds of potential new farmers.

Ruth Reichl lets the voices of the farmers themselves address possible solutions to the challenges facing our formidable agricultural juggernaut. One of the forward thinkers is Will Harris, of White Oak Pastures in Bluffton, Georgia. The little town, population 113, was on the ropes until Harris transformed the 3,200-acre operation into one of the most respected organic farms in the world, raising grass-fed beef, butchered on site with full transparency. Now his hundreds of employees have revitalized Bluffton with new parks, schools and churches.

At one point, the film seemed to be blaming distributors, singling out Sysco, for the high price of groceries. I talked to a few of the folks who distribute to our family supermarkets, and I'm convinced that they are not responsible. If anything, distributors economize the food system by smoothing the path from producer to consumer. And the grocery stores themselves? Just take a look at my cousin Pat Adams, the CEO of our family's markets. If he owns a private jet, I've never

"Food and Country" is available on streaming services Google Play, Fundango at Home and Amazon Prime Video.

Mark Adams is an agricultural advisor to the Dutchess County Executive, Dutchess County B.O.C.E.S. and Cornell University.

Town of Poughkeepsie Recreation

By Nate Smith
Recreation Director

The Town of Poughkeepsie Recreation is doing its part to build Holiday Cheer! Come see us at the annual Arlington Holiday Festival on Saturday, December 7th. The event will be a lot of fun with carriage rides, the "Eggnog Crawl," plenty of terrific shopping, and most importantly, "Santa's Workshop." That's where we will be doing our part to stay on the 'Nice' List! Details of this fantastic day will follow soon.

Senior Center News
By Ruta Ronis

Come on over tomorrow, Thursday Nov. 21, for our Lunch and Learn at noon to find out about the "Community Solar Campaign" that may help you save up to 10% on your electric bill. Participants are invited to enjoy a light lunch after the presentation. Please give us a call at 845-462-0265 to let us know you'll be joining us.

The holiday season is just around the corner, starting with Thanksgiving next week. This Friday, November 22, is the last day you can sign up for our Holiday Party at Mill Creek Catering in Hopewell Junction on December 5. There is a per person charge to attend, payable at registration, and it includes a 4-course lunch served, a raffle with various prizes, and great music by the band Chain Gang. A cash bar will be available. We are also planning a Holiday Celebration in-house at our Senior Center at 14 Abe's Way on Dec. 19.

Winter is on its way but that won't stop us from having some fun playing Chair Beachball Volleyball this Friday, Nov. 22, followed by an Ice Cream Social. Please sign up in advance, either in person or by phone.

Recharge your "little gray cells" with Veronica and "Brain Games and More" on Nov. 26 and Dec.10 from 10:30 a.m. - noon. Rover the Bookmobile will return to the Senior Center on Dec. 10 as well.

Come visit us for some holiday shopping on Friday, Dec 13, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., at our Holiday Market. We'll be offering crafts, handknit goods, wreaths and other goodies. We still have a few vendor spaces available. For more info call the center at 845-462-0265.

In the meantime, weather permitting, you are welcome to join our Bocce players and our Walking Club members. Inside we offer Line Dancing, Tai Chi, Zumba Gold, Chair and Mat Yoga, Exercise with George, Watercolor Painting, and Crafts with Loretta. You are also invited to join in with our card, game, and Billiard players.

So, if you are 55+, we welcome you to join in on the fun at our SC Monday - Friday between 9 a.m. - 2:30 p.m. We will be closed Nov. 28 - 29. You can view our full SC Activity Calendar at <http://www.PoughkeepsieTownRec.com>.

We wish everyone a very Happy Thanksgiving!

The heavy lines indicate areas, called cages, from one to five squares in size. Fill each cage with unique digits, counting up from 1. So for example a 2-square cage contains the numbers 1 and 2; and a 5-square cage contains the numbers from 1 to 5. Adjacent (touching) squares, even ones that touch diagonally, may never contain the same number.

Open Doors helped my dad return home from the nursing home. It was such a blessing.

The transition specialist was amazing. He walked us through every single step to make my dad comfortable at home.
